OFFICIALS TRAINMEN'S CANVASS BALLOTS

Frederickson Gains Eight Votes and Forrest Loses Three on Re-count

Miss Annie Brown's Total Takes Remarkable Jump Up to 10,156

Official canvass of the ballot at the primary election was made by the city council last night and the two highest candidates for each office declared nominated for the general election. There were several changes in the count from the unofficial returns, but in no case was there a change in the position among the candidates.

GAIN FOR FREDERICKSON.

By the official returns P. C. Frederickson gains eight votes and Forrest loses three in the fight on commission. This brings Frederickson to 4804 and Forrest to 4333. Mayor Mott lost three votes from his unofficial return of 8944, making his official count 8941. The largest gain received by any one candidate over the unofficial count was that given Annie Florence Brown, candidate for school director No. 5, who gained 101 votes by the official count. Her number is now 10,156.

Great interest was manifested last night in the fight between A. Hunse, the Socialist candidate from the annexed district for commissioner No. 2, and R. H. Chamberlain. William J. Bacus ran first on this number and is conceded an easy victory, but Hunse and Chamberlain have been fighting hard for the second place, to see which will have a place with Bacus on the ballot at the general election.

CHAMBERLAIN SMILES.

Both were present at the vote canvassing by the council last night. Hunse started in with an unofficial count of 14 votes, which gradually dwindled down to but 2 votes ahead of Chamberlain. A smile was beginning to show on Chamberlain's face, but Hunse did not show that he was losing confidence.

"I beat him, I beat him!" Hunse exclaimed as the vote reached the place (Continued on Page 2, Col. 5)

Champ Clark Invited To Visit Philippines

Islanders Want to Show Congressman Their Fitness for Independence.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Speaker Champ Clark and the Democrats of the House, who have taken interest in the Philippines, were invited today by Commissioner Manuel Quezon to visit the islands as guests of the Philippines. The invitations were extended by direction of the Philippine Assembly. A cablegram received by Quezon from Sergio Osmeña, speaker of the assembly, is as follows:

"If Speaker Clark and other congressmen will come to the Philippines we will not only show them that our hospitality goes hand in hand with our high aspirations for freedom, but will give the American people an opportunity to learn the fitness of the Filipino for independence."

Three Killed, Nine Injured When Tank Car Explodes

ST. LOUIS, April 22.—An explosion of a tank car filled with gasoline here today killed three persons and injured nine others, four of them perhaps fatally. The car was standing on the Wabash tracks at the plant of the Bell Oil Company. The dead: MRS. AGNES DALLWITZ, her granddaughter.

Twenty Die When Train Plunges Into Deep Abyss

CAPE TOWN, Union of South Africa, April 22.—Twenty persons were killed today when a passenger train on the Kowara railroad plunged into a gorge 250 feet deep, owing to a collapse of the Blaauwkrantz bridge, 13 miles from Grahamstown. The passengers were carried down with the coaches and killed. Their bodies were torn to pieces and inextricably mixed with the debris of the cars, which were ground to splinters.

GOVERNOR JOHNSON MAKES LAW OF RAILROAD 16-HOUR DAY Measure

Oleomargarine Must Be Labeled Properly Before It Can Be Sold

SACRAMENTO, April 22.—Governor Johnson today signed the bill providing for the sixteen-hour day for railroad men engaged in the operating of trains, dispatching trains or telegraph operators. This act places on the statute books of the State a law which conforms to the national requirement of railroads not to work their men more than sixteen hours on any day, and also that he shall have eighteen hours' rest between such shifts.

The dairy bureau bill—Senate 453—was signed by the Governor today. It prohibits the sale of oleomargarine except when properly and plainly labeled as such.

MANY OTHERS SIGNED.

Other bills signed are: S. B. 772, relating to voting or ballot machines. S. B. 539, providing that in cases where attorneys are charged with offenses which require their disbarment in case of conviction, they may be proceeded against even if out of the State by first having the order requiring them to appear published.

S. B. 393, requiring the outdoor advertisement receive permission from owners of property before putting up signs or advertisements.

SCHOOL AGE OF CHILDREN.

A. B. 240, relating to school age of children and also providing that excuses from attendance shall be granted in cases where the child is suffering from disease or any defect.

S. B. 950, relating to the business of banking. S. B. 1173, to provide for work upon streets and alleys, avenues and public places in cities.

A. B. 1157, county government act for Santa Cruz county. S. B. 955, county government act for Los Angeles.

Missourian Returns His Marriage License

Religious Differences Halts Romance and Eubank Sends Back His Permit.

On April 11 County Clerk John P. Cook issued a marriage license to George A. Eubank of Kansas City, Mo., and Miss Charlotte A. McManus, a pretty 18-year-old stenographer who gave her place of residence as Stege. This morning he received the license back inclosed in a letter from Eubank, dated at San Francisco, which read as follows: "An returning inclosed license unused, on account of religious differences. Am sorry to have put you to the trouble of issuing it."

Henry of Prussia Forced to Take Drop to Earth

DARMSTADT, Germany, April 22.—Prince Henry of Prussia had a thrilling experience while flying in an aeroplane with August Euler, over the military parade grounds today. The aviators were sailing along at a good clip having made thirty-four miles in a circular course in 40 minutes, when a cylinder in the machine broke and compelled the prince who was operating the aeroplane to make a hasty descent.

This, however, was accomplished successfully. There was no time in which to choose a landing and the aviators came down in the midst of a drilling regiment of soldiers, who were obliged to scatter to avoid injury.

The prince, who has become an enthusiastic aviator, was congratulated on his presence of mind and exhibition of nerve in the emergency.

ACQUITTED OF ONE CHARGE.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—Police man William Ceinar, accused of accepting bribes, obtained the dismissal of one of the charges against him, preferred by O. J. Killip.

FAME COY; ARTIST STEALS

Wm. A. Treffenberg Confesses Shoplifting From Oakland Stores

Painter Had Mrs. Hearst and Noted Persons as His Customers

Succumbing to the lure of drugs after a hard fight with poverty while pursuing fame, William A. Treffenberg, a painter and miniature artist whose art is known in the east and also on the Pacific coast, and who has done work for Mrs. Phoebe Hearst, kept himself from starvation by shoplifting in several Oakland stores. He was captured last night and confessed to having stolen articles of small value from a dozen shops in this city.

That the moral fibre of the man was undermined by the use of drugs and by poverty is the belief of the police. The man had for friends artists high in the public favor, and his work was valued by connoisseurs. But there is little market for the high-priced miniature work which was his special forte, and while his genius was recognized by men like William Keith and Xavier Martinez, and by eastern artists, his profession was not a lucrative one.

NO CHARGE MADE.

No charge has yet been placed against the artist, although he has confessed to many larcenies in this city. He was captured last night, and it is possible that a charge will be placed against him by Osgood's drug store, as he has confessed to taking a safety razor from the showcase in that store. This morning was spent by Treffenberg and Detectives Wulley and Drew recovering small articles he had pawned at local loan offices and returning them to the rightful owners.

The artist received his training in the east and abroad. Finding the struggle for existence in the commercial field too difficult for a man of his caliber to face and driven to desperation by poverty and hunger and the recognition that he was a failure, he started using drugs. Then he became broken in health, and some months ago came to California, in the hope of bettering his condition and finding a home in the colony of artists who have made this state their Mecca.

MRS. HEARST A CUSTOMER.

He obtained rooms at the Teddy house at 920 Franklin street in Oakland, where he set up a small studio. Gradually his work became known. He received an order from Mrs. Phoebe A. Hearst and painted a miniature for her. According to Mrs. L. M. Lacoste, proprietress of the Teddy house, he was behind with his rent at the time, but paid up in full when he received the check.

How the man lived during these four months Mrs. Lacoste declares is a mystery. He received occasional kindnesses in the form of invitations to dine. But he rarely seemed to have money, and apparently sustained life with the most

DETECTIVES HAVE CLEW TO BLACKMAILERS OF J. CASSOU

New Theory Given as to Cause of Outrage

Son Is Carefully Guarded and the Building Is Watched

Efforts by the police to track down the fiends who yesterday morning attempted to destroy the building occupied by J. Cassou at Fifth and Clay streets after attempting by threats against him and his family to extort money from the wealthy baker have so far been unavailing. Captain of Detectives Petersen declared this morning that he was working on a clew he believed would lead to an arrest, but refused to disclose the nature of his information.

The police are in doubt as to whether the bomb was placed by a blackmailer or by some one who had a spite against Cassou and his family and wished to terrorize them. It is the theory of the police that the bomb was made either by amateurs ignorant of the use of powder and explosives, or that it was placed merely with the intention of intimidating Cassou without endangering anybody's life. The effort to blow up the three-story building, in which over two score people were asleep, was abortive either from lack of preparation or because the man who handled the infernal machine was not an expert at his work.

The ingenious plan for receiving the money which the "Black Hand" blackmailers hoped to use in extorting money from their victim leads the detectives to the belief that the placing of the bomb which wrecked a portion of the building may have been the work of an organized gang with headquarters in the Latin quarter in San Francisco. The directions for leaving the money at the edge of a park in the crowded district of San Francisco at 10:30 in the evening when the streets would have many pedestrians to serve as a cloak for the men who hoped to receive the money indicate that the plotters were of unusual cleverness. The plan is a new one and would permit the blackmailers to pick up the bag of coin and make his escape in the park or, if captured, to say that he accidentally stumbled against it and naturally picked it up. The plan is one that would likely forestall the capture and conviction of the conspirators if an attempt was made to lay a trap for them.

It became known today that the po

Frightfully Burned By Dose of Ammonia

Young Girl Drinks Poison by Mistake for Cough Syrup.

Helen McCloskey, 16 years old, residing at 241 Little street, mistook ammonia for cough syrup last night and swallowed a mouthful of the virulent drug. Her screams attracted the attention of her brother, who notified the police, and she was taken to the receiving hospital, where she was treated.

AMERICANS ASK INTERFERENCE OF U. S.

Attack on Acapulco Is Imminent, Say Residents

WASHINGTON, April 22.—All the Americans in Acapulco, including David Thompson, former ambassador to Mexico, have presented a petition to the United States consul requesting the aid of the United States government, saying an attack on that city is imminent. The consul says 500 rebels have taken Omatepec and are holding it. They have also appeared in San Marcos. The civil authorities in Acapulco, the consul adds, are transferring the records of the court to the fort, which is expected to be a place of refuge.

TORONTO, Ont., April 22.—Herbert Deverell is dead here as the result of a fifteen-day fast which he undertook in the hope of curing a slight illness. Two years ago he successfully fasted for three weeks, and fifteen days ago he commenced another, which he intended should last eighteen days.

Convicted Slayer Freed On Bond of $50,000

TOPEKA, Kas., April 22.—The State Supreme Court at noon today approved the $50,000 bond of A. A. Truskett, who was convicted in Montgomery county of the murder of J. D. Neely, a millionaire operator of Lima, O. He will be released pending the appeal of his case. The bond is the largest ever ordered by the Supreme Court.

Nickel-in-Slot Machines Soon to Be Thing of Past

SACRAMENTO, April 22.—Governor Johnson today signed the bill prohibiting nickel-in-the-slot machines in California. The bill goes into effect in 60 days.

FIGHT? NO, NOT FOR MADERO

Rebel Says He Didn't Send Ultimatum Demanding Diaz' Resignation

Troops, Within Rifle Shot, Wait for Truce or Opening of Battle

MADERO'S CAMP, via El Paso, Tex., April 22.—Prospects of peace in Mexico became rosier today when General Madero in an interview with the Associated Press correspondent declared that he had never, and does not now, insist upon the immediate resignation of President Diaz as a necessary preliminary to the signing of a peace pact.

This admission was so startling that the representative repeated the words to General Madero and asked if that was the statement he wished to make. He replied that the statement was correct, and added: "It has been said that I sent an ultimatum to President Diaz, insisting that he must resign. I did not do so. I would like to see the revolution end peacefully. I want no further bloodshed. I have always been willing to make concessions to bring the war to an end and there is no personal sacrifice I would not make. It must be borne in mind, however, that there can be no peace the terms of which are not satisfactory to the Mexican people."

ALL WANT PEACE.

"All my officers are in perfect accord with my views. Not one will try to continue the rebellion if he finds that honorable terms are to be had, and that the people of Mexico will receive those rights guaranteed by the constitution. When I say that my officers agree with me, it includes Pancho Villa. Villa, like the rest of us, is fighting for a principle, not for the love of fighting."

General Madero gave out the interview after an early morning meeting with his subordinate chiefs, Blanco, Salazar, Villa, Garibaldi and Orozco. Villa personally confirmed the statement that any terms acceptable to Madero would be accepted by him.

With reference to Dr. Gomez's announcement that an armistice was being arranged, General Madero said: "I have telegraphed to Gomez that

Deserters Drown as They Flee From Ship

Would Be Recruiter Also Loses Life When Boat Falls From Davit.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—While attempting to escape from the steam whaler Belvedere, scheduled to sail for Alaskan waters today, Howell Holdorf and G. M. Hogan, residents of San Francisco, who had signed for the cruise, were drowned off Goat island, in the bay, last night. Joseph Gordon, a member of the crew, while trying to rescue the men, lost his life when one of the Belvedere's boats fell from the davits.

Holdorf and Hogan rowed away in a small boat, but a plug was missing from the bottom, and it sank with them.

American Prisoners Freed by Diaz' Order

EL PASO, April 22.—Lawrence F. Converse of Glendora, Cal., Edwin Blatt of Pittsburg, Pa., and Richard Brown of El Paso, held in prison in Juarez, were released today on orders from President Diaz. Brown was with the insurgents hospital corps and had not borne arms. Converse and Blatt had borne arms and were arrested by Mexican federals on Texas soil.

DOVE OF PEACE NOW HOVERS OVER THE D. A. R. SOCIETY

MRS. MATTHEW T. SCOTT, who was re-elected president-general of the Daughters of the American Revolution.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—The Daughters of the American Revolution met today in the closing session of the twentieth annual continental congress. With Mrs. Matthew T. Scott re-elected president-general and her entire ticket in office, and with Mrs. Story, the opposing candidate, pledged to support the administration as she announced last night, a comparatively peaceful year in the organization is looked for. In addition to the election of one vice-president-general to fill a vacancy some unfinished business was taken up at today's session. Many of the delegates already have departed for their homes.

RESULT OF BALLOT.

Of the 1036 votes cast Mrs. Scott received 614, her opponent, Mrs. William C. Storey of New York, 466, and six of the ballots were blank as to choice for president-general. The tellers spent almost twenty-four hours in counting the vote. With Mrs. Scott was elected the entire administration ticket, except one vice-president-general, who received ten votes less than the number necessary to elect. For this position a new ballot will be taken.

When Mrs. Scott entered Continental hall after the vote had been announced, preceded down the center aisle by a dozen charming young pages and followed by a score more, bearing great baskets and arms full of flowers, she was received with wild applause. Scarcely had she mounted the platform before Mrs. Storey asked for recognition. She declared she had no bitterness in her heart because of her defeat and urged all members of the organization to uphold the hands of the newly-elected president-general.

OTHERS ELECTED.

The others elected were: Vice-president-general, in charge of organization of chapters, Mrs. Henry L. Mann; chaplain-general, Miss Elizabeth Pierce; recording secretary-general, Mrs. Howard T. Hodgkins; corresponding secretary-general, Mrs. William J. Bennett; treasurer-general, Mrs. William D. Hoover; historian-general, Mrs. Charles Bassett; assistant historian-general, Mrs. Linor S. Thompson; and librarian-general, Miss Amyrillis Gillet, all residents of the District of Columbia except Mrs. Bassett of Maryland and Mrs. Thompson of Massachusetts.

Ten vice-presidents-general were to be elected, but only nine were elected enough votes. All elected were Scott candidates, as also was Miss Harriet Lake of Iowa, who, although tenth in the number of votes, had been too few to elect. The nine elected were: Miss Sophie Waples of Delaware, Mrs. Clayton R. Trussell of Ohio, Mrs. Allen P. Perry of Pennsylvania, Mrs. James F. Eyring of Michigan, Mrs. Benton of Michigan, Mrs. Ben Gray Jr. of Missouri, Mrs. James M. Fowler of Indiana, Mrs. Edwin C. Gregory of North Carolina, Mrs. Charles C. Ryan of Tennessee and Mrs. R. H. Edmondson of West Virginia. Mrs. J. Morgan Smith of Alabama was elected honorary vice-president-general. Mrs. Elmyr May Avery was re-elected editor of the American Monthly Magazine, the official organ of the D. A. R.

AVOID DECEPTION

Use Newbro's Herpicide Instead.

Wearing artificial hair is a harmless deceit of which many ladies are guilty. These women are all objects for sympathy rather than criticism.

Early neglect in the care of the scalp has caused the loss of so much hair that their personal appearance is sadly marred. To correct this defect they resort to artificial hair.

Most ladies would resent any imputation of personal carelessness and would permit their natural hair to become so dull, brittle and lusterless that it looks no better than the artificial.

All this is as unfortunate as it is unnecessary. Hair that is unsightly or thin may usually be attributed to the malevolent activity of the dandruff germ. This vicious germ burrows down into the hair follicle, shortly destroying the life. The hair becomes dead, loose and finally drops out.

There is a remedy sold by all druggists, the intelligent use of which will kill the dandruff germ. It also cleanses the scalp of all accumulations and makes the hair shine with the luster of life and beauty.

That remedy is Newbro's Herpicide, the Original Dandruff Germ Destroyer. This preparation in one dollar size bottles is sold and guaranteed everywhere. Applications may be obtained at the best barber shops and hairdressing parlors.

The Herpicide Co., Dept. R., Detroit, Mich., will send a nice sample and booklet to any address upon receipt of 40c in postage or silver.

ROYAL Baking Powder Economy

The manufacturers of Royal Baking Powder have always declined to produce a cheap baking powder at the sacrifice of quality.

Royal Baking Powder is made from pure grape cream of tartar, and is the embodiment of all the excellence possible to be attained in the highest class baking powder.

Royal Baking Powder costs only a fair price, and is more economical at its price than any other leavening agent, because of the superlative quality and absolute wholesomeness of the food it makes.

Mixtures made in imitation of baking powders, but containing alum, are frequently distributed from door to door, or given away in grocery stores. Such mixtures are dangerous to use in food. In England, France, Germany and some sections of the United States their sale is prohibited by law. Alum is a dangerous mineral acid, and all physicians condemn baking powders containing it.

The label of alum baking powders must show the ingredients.

NEGRO BURGLAR STABS SLEEPERS

Man, Wife and Two Children
Are Frightfully Wounded
by Assailant.

BRISTOL, Tenn., April 22.—An unidentified negro late last night entered the home of John Marshall, an aged citizen, and going from bed to bed, slashed the sleeping occupants so that one or more may die. Marshall's throat was cut and his windpipe severed. His wife was fearfully stabbed, while a seven-year-old boy was stabbed half a dozen times. A daughter was also stabbed severely. Bloodhounds are on the trail of the negro, who is understood to have gotten a large sum of money which, it is said, Marshall drew from the bank today.

PROOF THAT PROVES

If one person more than another should know the value of medicine, it is the retail druggist.

Therefore when ten thousand retail druggists of the United States recommend Vinol, the delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, as the best strengthening tonic known, and are willing to return their customers' money in every case where it fails to give satisfaction, there can be no room for doubt.

Among others, one of the most reliable druggists of Lynn, Mass., Mr. Warren Poppan says, "From personal experience I know what Vinol will do. I had a chronic cold all winter, and was so weak I could hardly get about. Nothing seemed to help me until I tried Vinol—the change was magical—and what surprised me most, Vinol not only cured the cold but built me up and cured me of a severe stomach trouble that had bothered me for twenty years. 'Vinol is certainly a wonderful medicine.' (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine).

We ask every run-down, nervous, debilitated, aged or weak person, or any person suffering from chronic coughs and colds to try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not do all we claim. The Owl Drug Co., Oakland, Cal.

LATEST NEWS FROM OUTSIDE TOWNS

DRUIDS TO MAKE MERRY IN VALLEY

All in Readiness for Celebration to Begin Next Week.

LIVERMORE, April 22.—Everything is in readiness for the four-day carnival to be held by the Livermore Order of Druids from April 26 to April 29. For more than three months the committee of arrangements have been at work on the preparations to make this affair one long to be remembered by the residents of Livermore, Niles, Pleasanton and all the other towns of the valley. Special features galore have been planned by the committee in charge of the amusements. Side-shows with elephants, lions, bearded women, Indians and cowboys, enough to make the eyes of the youngsters stick out, are some of these features.

The closing day of the carnival it is planned to have a gigantic street parade in which all the fraternal organizations are to be represented. Members of the Oakland and San Francisco Order of Druids and Eagles are to head the line while behind them will come displays of the various industries of the valley mounted on decorated floats.

PISTOL IDENTIFIES SUSPECT.
WOODLAND, April 22.—Sheriff Bailey of Willows, who came here to see Earl Watson, who is awaiting trial for burglary committed at Davis two weeks ago, found among the articles taken from Watson his own revolver. This gun had been loaned to Deputy Sheriff Monroe of Willows, and was taken from Monroe's home when the place was burglarized recently.

CRUISERS ORDERED SOUTH.
VALLEJO, April 22.—Orders have been received for the cruisers Raleigh and Cincinnati to proceed to San Diego in a few days. A draft of men from the receiving ship Independence joined the two men-of-war today, and another large draft of men is coming from Norfolk to be placed aboard the cruisers before their departure for the south.

CHERRY CARNIVAL TO SET RECORD

Plans for San Leandro Festival
Rapidly Nearing Completion.

SAN LEANDRO, April 22.—Plans for the San Leandro cherry carnival are rapidly nearing completion, and according to present conditions will be held in the neighborhood of June 10. It is figured by the committee to have the carnival the most elaborate one that has yet been held. Thousands of visitors from Oakland, San Francisco and all the surrounding towns are expected, and many new novelties in the way of decorations are promised by the decoration committee. There will be a parade through the main portion of the town, which will contain many beautiful floats, decorated with blossoms and flowers.

Permanent officers to carry on the carnival were chosen as follows: M. J. Andrade, chairman; W. J. Gannon, secretary; W. F. Cunningham, financial secretary; J. J. Gill, treasurer. SUPT. CALLS FOR MORE LAND FOR CHILDREN

Contents City Should Provide for Playgrounds While Property Is Cheap.

HOLDS THEM NECESSARY FOR PUBLIC HEALTH

Progress and Prosperity Committee of Chamber of Commerce Hears Address.

City Superintendent of Schools J. W. McClymonds addressed the members of the progress and prosperity committee of the Chamber of Commerce last night on the school bond election and the necessity for additional playgrounds for the different schools, urging the importance of the city acquiring adequate recreation grounds for its children while sufficiently large tracts of ground are available. In the course of his remarks the speaker mentioned that the anti-tuberculosis societies in the vicinity fully realize the important part the establishment of playgrounds play in eradicating the dread "white plague" from the ranks of the growing generation.

ACCUSED BOY POISONER NOW DENIES CRIMES

SAN JOSE, April 22.—Robert Nicholls, the 11-year-old boy poisoner of Los Gatos, through the persistent efforts of the juvenile court, has changed his story regarding the systematic poisoning of his foster mother, Mrs. Mary E. Osborn, yesterday, when he was brought into the juvenile court, Dr. A. E. Osborn of Santa Clara announced the change of front by the boy has experienced, following hypnosis and psychological treatment administered during the last two weeks, and the court quickly announced that the matter of committing him to the care of some institution would be carefully considered and an order made in private in order that the court officials might know where he is to be sent. This is to avoid publicity, which, it is feared, would influence the boy's future for evil.

FOUR-YEAR COURSE IS VIGOROUSLY DEFENDED

GALESBURG, Ill., April 22.—The conference of the colleges of the middle West closed last night with a vigorous protest against the alleged attempts of the universities to "lure students away from them and a vigorous defense of the four-year undergraduate course.

Walnut Growers Independent

Secure a few acres of our three-year-old Walnut Groves and you can write a letter like this:

Dear Fred: Noticing the R. N. Burgess Co's advertising called to mind the ha-ha you gave me about ten years ago when I purchased my 10 acres down here; well, the laugh is on you now.

My 10 acres paid me $2,000 last year, beside $850 I made from chickens, and my trees are original English Walnut, which are not as long lived or heavy bearing as the Black Walnut root, grafted with the English Walnut, and they tell me the R. N. Burgess Co. are using the Black Walnut grafted.

Say Fred, several who know say that the results in the Mount Diablo Valleys have been fine. Why don't you take advantage of their next excursion and buy a few acres? You have a few dollars in the bank and can pay the balance monthly. There is nothing to your future but the Old Ladies' Home if you just keep grinding at so much per.

Come down and have a chicken dinner with us and see how Lou and I live on Easy Street, - I am figuring on an auto next year.

Take my advice and buy some Walnut Groves.

Lou joins me in best wishes.

Joe.

RECIPROCITY BILL PASSES HOUSE AFTER LONG FIGHT

Majority of Republicans and Handful of Democrats Vote Against Agreement in Vain

WASHINGTON, April 22.—President Taft's Canadian reciprocity agreement, supported by all but a handful of Democrats and opposed by a majority of the Republicans, passed the house of representatives late yesterday by a vote of 265 to 89.

With nearly 200 Democrats in control, and their action endorsed by many Republicans, the bill was adopted with no amendments, and in almost identical form in which it passed the house last session.

The bill seeks to put into effect the formal agreement reached between President Taft and members of the Canadian cabinet for a reduction of tariff rates on many articles and free trade in many others across the Canadian border.

BUSY DAYS AT OAKLAND DOCKS

Lumber Schooners Arrive and Many Cargoes Are Discharged.

The steam schooner Jessie Freeman is at the United Engineering Works for general repairs. When the work is completed it will leave for the north bound command of Captain Johnson.

The Bay City Mills is still receiving large shipments of millstuffs, the following having been received yesterday: Three cars of Washington wheat, two cars of rye from Southern California and one car of hay from Pleasanton.

ROCKEFELLER, JR. ARRESTED.

NEW YORK, April 22.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., must appear in police court to answer a complaint brought by the department of health that property owned by his father, for which he is the agent, constitutes a menace to the public safety. The complaint alleges that a ledge of the Rockefeller rocks overhangs the sidewalk.

ANNUAL MEMORIAL SERVICES WILL BE HELD TOMORROW

HUGH L. HAGAN, who will deliver the eulogy at the Moose memorial services tomorrow.

LODGE OF MOOSE TO HONOR DEAD

Program of Addresses and the Musical Numbers to Be Rendered.

The annual memorial services of Oakland lodge of Moose, No. 324, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock in the First Unitarian church, Fourteenth and Castro streets, where several hundred members of the order will pay tribute to the deceased brothers. The members who have died since the last memorial service are Alfred Merle Cook and Charles Kasonia. Dr. W. C. Pruett, chairman of the memorial committee, will preside over the exercises.

The program was held in Lissner Hall, which was elaborately decorated and the display of electric lights was augmented for the affair and the beautiful grounds were highly illuminated, granting the privilege of a campus promenade.

The patronesses were Mrs. Susan Mills, President Luella Clay Carson, Miss Clara Wittenmyer, Mrs. Josiah Kenyon and Mesdames Julius David Young, David John Ritchie, Welton Mason Fowler of Stockton, James Mills of Riverside, Robert S. Powers of Oroville and Joseph Bray of Astoria.

CONDUCTORS TO BE OAKLAND'S GUESTS

Pennsylvania Delegation Is to Visit City on Way to Convention.

The local organization of railroad conductors is making elaborate plans for the entertainment next Thursday of the delegation of Pennsylvania railroad conductors to the big convention in Jacksonville, Fla., who will pass through Oakland from Portland and Seattle.

ASKS TO HAVE DIVORCE VACATED

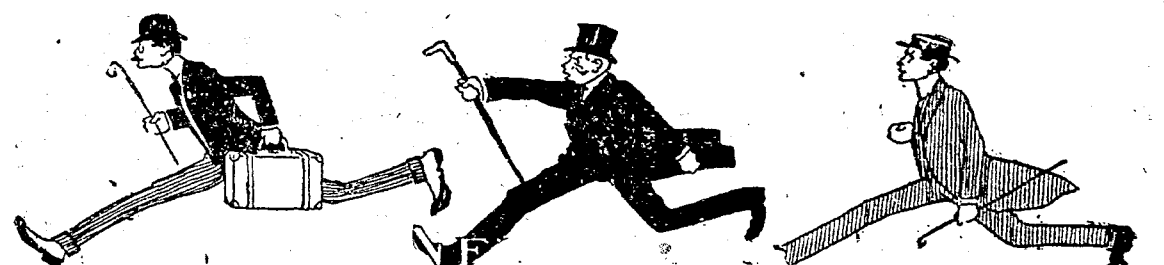

Former Wife of Man Wants Her Share of Community Property.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—Mrs. Edith Briggs of Eugene, Ore., applied to Superior Judge Graham this morning requesting that he vacate a divorce granted in 1908 to her former husband, Lester R. Briggs, claiming that she never knew of it until it was too late to contest the action.

SMALLPOX WAS HIS TRAVELING COMPANION

LOS ANGELES, April 22.—C. L. Laslin of San Francisco, who arrived in this city several days ago and registered at the Rosslyn Hotel, became suddenly sick while taking a car ride and stopped off to see a physician. The doctor discovered that Laslin was suffering from a severe attack of smallpox, and communicated with the Board of Health.

The authorities immediately took Laslin to the Detention Hospital in Chavez ravine, where he will have to remain some time. His condition is reported satisfactory. A corps of doctors from the health office was sent to the Rosslyn and wholesale vaccinations followed, all persons who were by any possible means exposed being treated. The operation included fifty hotel employees.

CHISHOLM AFFINITY FOUND BY OFFICIALS

SANTA ROSA, April 22.—Sought for weeks by officials that she might be interviewed as to what knowledge she might have of Dr. C. L. Chisholm, Mrs. M. A. Thompson, who was living with him when he was arrested in San Francisco charged with the murder of John D. Powell near Fort Ross, has been found.

38 LIONS KILLED. California lion hunters did a pretty good business last month, according to a report issued by State Controller Nye, which shows that thirty-eight lions were killed in twenty-two counties and the State has paid a total of $760 for the scalps. Mendocino county leads the other counties, five lions having been brought to earth by hunters up there.

KIDDIES' TEETH ASTOUND. SACRAMENTO, April 22.—After examining the teeth of eighty-four children attending the Lincoln primary school a committee of the Sacramento County Dental Association reported that but one child, a girl, was found whose teeth did not need attention. A movement has been started for the establishment of a free dental clinic for needy children.

OAKLAND Business Property AUCTION

OPPOSITE New two million Bankers' Hotel. Three blocks of every big bank and office building --- fronting on 12th, 13th and 14th streets.

Opportunity Extraordinary

In order to close up the business of the Harrison Realty Co. (a Corporation), the stockholders have authorized us to sell at Public Auction in nine parcels the entire holdings of the company, comprising the choicest central improved and unimproved corners and inside lots located opposite the New Bankers' Hotel and within Oakland's rapidly expanding business section.

CONSIDER THIS

Twenty years ago 14th and Broadway lots were sold at auction, on which now stands the Macdonough Theater Building, Athenian Club, Elks' Club, Mackay Block, the Central Bank, all 4 and 5-story buildings, and new Realty Syndicate 10-story building --- land worth from $2,000 to $6,000 per foot today. Not since has there been such business property sold at public auction in Oakland and as the property to be offered, which is only 500 to 1000 feet from the above mentioned standardized properties.

Reciprocity and the Course of Trade.

Discussing the subject of the rural decline of the State of Vermont which is primarily, and even today, an agricultural State, and the causes which have resulted in its decline, the Springfield Republican repudiates the suggestion of a reviewer in the Boston Transcript that these causes are the absence of a sea coast, no waterway facilities, a severe climate, exhausted soil and limited mineral resources, but suggests that its failure to grow in sixty years or more is due to a national political and economic policy which has developed the great traveled highways of the nation so as to run exclusively east and west. Vermont has, in other words, retrogressed because she has been sidetracked and isolated by artificial barriers to trade and commerce. The Republican claims that the Canadian reciprocity agreement now pending before Congress at Washington will remove much of this artificial barrier, on the ground that commerce will move freely over the natural highways of Vermont which extend north and south. "And as commerce from without the State moves in larger volume through it," the Republican adds, "trade and industry within the State will increase and the whole life of the State will be quickened."

The point made is that the reciprocity agreement with Canada will have the tendency of developing a north and south trade of corresponding value to the east and west trade, which is now exclusively enjoyed by those States that are traversed by the transcontinental railroads, and that this new development in the course of trade will immensely benefit Vermont and all other States contiguous to the Canadian provinces. If that assumption is sound, then the ratification of the agreement ought to be beneficial to all of the Pacific States by developing reciprocal trade between them and the Canadian provinces of Alberta and British Columbia, both of which are now attracting a large immigration. Their rich agricultural lands are eminently well adapted to grain culture and to cattle raising, both of which industries have been steadily declining for years in the Pacific States. The land has, however, been turned over to more profitable uses—to the production of crops which the Canadian provinces cannot raise, but for which a demand will exist at once and grow proportionately with the increase of their population. We want what they can produce and they will open a good market for what we are producing. The reciprocity agreement ought, therefore, to be mutually profitable.

The farmers in the eastern end of Alameda county have joined in earnest in the war of extermination instituted against the ground squirrel in whose furry coat the sewer rat flea, which is held responsible for the spreading of the bubonic plague, is said to have taken refuge. The extermination of the ground squirrel will remove unquestionably one of the most destructive pests afflicting the farmers. Whether the war which has been started will have the same effect on the plague-stricken rat flea remains to be seen. In the interest of the rodent-killing industry which has developed during the past five years, it will probably be discovered that the nimble flea has adopted as its habitat the hide of some other numerous fur-coated tribe. The industry is too profitable to be allowed to sink into a state of innocuous desuetude.

The Los Angeles Times has found it necessary to start a campaign to educate its readers in the correct pronunciation of the name of the city. It has, therefore, introduced this legend which remains standing at the head of its editorial column—"LOS ANGELES—Loce-Ahng-hay-lais." It is now in order for the San Jose and Stockton newspapers to teach new-comers to their respective counties how to correctly pronounce San Jose and San Joaquin.

Professor Lowell declares that his observations of the planet Mars from the observatory at Flagstaff prove conclusively that it is inhabited by intelligent life and the markings visible on its surface are undoubtedly irrigation canals. Professor Aiken asserts on the other hand with equal positiveness that his study of Mars through the thirty-six-inch refractory telescope at the Lick Observatory proves that the planet has no human inhabitants or is capable of sustaining animal life; that the so-called canal markings are earthquake fissures and that it is practically as much a dead world as the moon. Now you can pay your money and take your choice of these opposing scientific opinions. The old earth and its people seem to be getting along all right, however, whether Mars is a living world or a dead one.

The Nevada City Transcript says the suffragettes to be consistent should adopt the harem skirt as part of their adornment because it looks more manly. Every woman who shuns the harem skirt, whether she is a suffragette or not, shows better taste and common sense than the empty-pated society woman who has adopted the freak unaware of the fact that she is wearing a reproduction of the ungainly garment of a China woman, and makes her look like a slob.

The United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service is taking no chances about the possible introduction of smallpox into Alaska. It has issued the order that all persons taking passage on Alaska-bound steamers must be vaccinated before they will be permitted to embark. This action follows the discovery of a few cases of smallpox among the crews and passengers of steamships recently calling at Seattle, and it is taken as a precaution against the invasion of the territory by the scourge. It is recalled that in 1862 an epidemic of smallpox which broke out among the Indian tribes in British Columbia carried off over 30,000 victims that year, and left hundreds of Indian rancherias scattered throughout the province practically tenantless.

Agua Prieta is Spanish for black water; but of late it has been more suggestive of red wine or firewater.

At present, at least, the commission form of government for municipalities is gaining popularity rapidly. Recently the representatives of thirty-two New Jersey municipalities besieged the Legislature to urge it to pass a commission form of government bill. Its enactment opens the way for an extensive experiment in that State.

The Army Canteen.

The temperance organizations regarded the abolition of the army canteen as one of their greatest triumphs in the interest of good morals. Since then they have had ample opportunity, however, to modify their views. They now know that the closure of the canteen has not helped the cause of temperance or of decency and morality. It has not suppressed the drinking habit in the rank and file of the army. The scene of its gratification has simply been changed from the canteen, where restraint was exercised, to the deadfalls established on territory outside military jurisdiction where no restraint exists. Such was the experience at the Presidio military reservation. At isolated military posts, it has been comparatively easy to conceal the chief evils associated with the change, as the people have not had the benefit of the exposure of the conditions which follows publicity.

The establishment of an army camp at San Antonio, Texas, under the present mobilization of the army along the Mexican frontier, affords for the first time a convincing illustration in active field service of the evils which have followed the abolition of the canteen. Rumshops, dance houses and dives have gathered around the camp. There is no concealment of the barrooms, music halls and bagnios over which military discipline does not extend. As a result, victims of the drinking habit whose weaknesses and follies are carefully concealed from the public eye at ordinary army posts, wallow in the gutters of San Antonio and the most earnest of the missionaries of temperance are forced to doubt the wisdom of abolishing the canteen and substituting in its stead a system of whitewashed reform. The Women's Christian Temperance Union is said to be almost convinced by the conditions at San Antonio that the reopening of the army canteen, under strict military regulations, will be more effective for the cause of temperance and decency in the army than its abolition has been found to be.

FORTUNE FOR PAINTING

Measured in products of the farm or in day laborers' wages, $500,000, which P. A. B. Widener of Philadelphia paid for "The Mill," by Rembrandt, is an enormous sum to give for a painting. A painting by Titian, "La Schiavona," has just been secured by a dealer abroad, and presumably the hunt for an American traction magnate or captain of industry capable of purchasing it at a considerable advance will be resumed. Only a few days ago a painting by Turner, "Pas de Calais," was sold in this city for approximately $200,000 to a wealthy American collector. If there were fewer American millionaires there would be fewer such prices paid for pictures. Europe calls at them for capturing its art prizes that come into the market, but Europe is shrewd enough to price its Rembrandts and Titians so high that its rich collectors balk at the American bids. When Lord Lansdowne received an offer of $500,000 from this side of the Atlantic for "The Mill," he held it for weeks in order to permit the British public to subscribe that of the Philadelphia purchaser of the family hall room he will swell his own income and temporarily reduce that of the Philadelphia purchaser who inherited nothing.

Even with the large funds at their disposal and help from public treasuries, the great museums are handicapped when bankers and steel barons stand ready to bid in six figures. For their most costly acquisitions they are coming more and more to depend upon private donors.

The Louvre recently fell heir to the famous collection of M. Chauchard, the Paris department store owner, that was valued in the millions. It is greatly to the credit of the rich collectors of this country that they maintain a friendly rivalry in filling the museums of our leading cities with treasures from their own galleries. Art works that cannot be bought in the public name for lack of funds, through private generosity in time find their place as public property.—New York World.

HANDLING SUBWAY CROWDS

The popularity of that ever popular means of rapid transit, the subway, continues to increase. In January of this year 889,421 more passengers jammed into its trains than in January, 1910. February did even better, the second month of this year showing an increase of 1,139,876 over the same month of last year. The subway now carries more passengers than all of the elevated roads together.

How is the increasing crowd carried? No doubt the side-door train accounts for most of the additional space. The old style car with cross seats in the middle left very little room for straphangers in that part of the car. In the new side-door cars the greatest amount of standing room is in the center, there being no seats on the side where the door open, while often the hinged seats on the other side are not let down in rush hours. Thus the utmost facilities for standing are furnished. We have never seen an estimate of the increased capacity for straphangers resulting from the elimination of cross seats, but it must have been enormous. The Interborough management was evidently blind to its interests when it opposed side doors.

For future increase in traffic the Interborough Rapid Transit company has the free employment of ten-car trains in reserve. Platforms have been lengthened and already there are some ten-car trains, but these "operating monstrosities," as the company once called them, will no doubt be put on gradually, as the increased traffic requires, care being taken not to place in service enough at once to give the public a distaste for riding in overcrowded trains.—New York Tribune.

Twenty Years Ago Today

Few papers published on the Pacific coast have ever met with so many praises and commendations as the great issue of THE EVENING TRIBUNE of January, 1891. As a historical work it is par excellence and even now the numbers are sought after by eastern people.

There will be a quiet wedding at the residence of Charles Camden, the capitalist of Tenth and Market streets, this evening, when the daughter, Miss Grace Camden, will be united to Deputy City Assessor Austin C. Richards. Outside of immediate relatives and friends no one will be present.

Four applications have been filed with the Board of Works for the position of city wharfinger now held by Mr. Houghton. The office-seekers are C. A. Henderson, W. O'Brien, J. A. Hall and G. A. King.

Governor Markham yesterday appointed A. D. Thomson and Fred A. Campbell directors of the industrial home of mechanical trades for the adult blind on Telegraph avenue just north of the city limits.

A decided event in the higher circles of German society of the bay cities was the wedding of Miss Minna Schoenau and Max C. Schultze in Alameda last Saturday evening, at which time a large number of friends were in attendance.

Collis P. Huntington, president of the Southern Pacific Railroad Company, has been in Oakland to have a conference with ex-Mayors N. W. Spaulding, William B. Davis and W. W. Cameron in regard to the Seventh street railroad line.

School Director Rutherford is down with the grip.

Rev. J. H. J. Rice left yesterday for his new pastorate in Alton, Ill. Among those who went to the train to bid him God-speed were Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Corliss, Mrs. A. A. Williamson, Mrs. Hanford, Misses Mattie and Julia Ludlow, Mrs. George Collier, Mrs. Rowland, Miss Aldrian Crandall, Misses Mattie and Ella Corliss, Rev. E. C. Oakley and others.

Professor James R. Thatcher, who in 1889 was acting professor of Latin at the University of California, died in New Haven Monday. He was a nephew of the late Sherman Day of this city.

Mrs. George H. Mastick of Alameda and her mother, Mrs. G. N. Williams, departed Friday night for New York, where they will visit for two months.

H. Clawson, W. G. Henshaw and C. Hildebrandt have filed their inventory and appraisal of the estate of Martin Menges deceased, and value his property at $54,280. Mrs. Menges has asked for a family allowance of $400 per month.

Miss Ella Hill, employed by Attorneys M. C. and E. C. Chapman in the Blake & Moffitt building, is the second lady stenographer in the state to be appointed a notary public.

The Campbell Investment Company has been incorporated in San Francisco. The directors are: Amy S. Jones, Jessie H. Campbell, Ellen O. de Fremery, W. C. B. de Fremery and Donald Y. Campbell, all of whom reside in Oakland.

Reading the evidence in the Camorra trials convinces one that the Italian authorities have entered into a conspiracy to blacken the reputation of a lot of white doves.—Deseret Evening News.

THREE $1000 BILLS

This is the scenario of a story called "The Letter," which I once wrote and could never induce anyone to publish. The editors seemed to think it was not true to life. What do you think?

A tramp, ragged, dirty and hungry, walking along the riverside in Des Moines, Ia., caught sight of a letter lying on a rubbish heap. Picking it up he found the envelope unopened. Some one had accidentally dropped it. He put it in his pocket, intending to open it later. A few minutes afterward he was arrested for vagrancy. He was searched and the letter, among other things, was taken from him and laid on the police captain's desk. He was sentenced to thirty days' hard labor—because he had no money.

The letter was blown out of the window of the police station by a gust of wind. A bank clerk, passing by, found it and intended to put it in the post. But he forgot, as he was in great distress of mind, having taken the bank's funds for speculation and being unable to replace them. That morning he committed suicide—for lack of $3000.

The letter had fallen from his pocket into his waste basket. It went to the basement. A boy playing there found it and carried it, in mere boyish pride of having letters. The boy's mother, a poor widow, sent him with a note to the agent from whom she rented, asking further time in which to pay her monthly allowance. The agent refused. The woman was evicted and went out to service; her boy became a street Arab—all for the lack of a little money. When the widow's son delivered his mother's note to the agent, the letter he had found in the bank basement fell out of his pocket. When the boy had gone the agent took up the fallen letter. He had not seen the boy drop it, and did not know where it came from. By this time the address was indecipherable. The agent therefore opened the letter. He found in it three perfectly good $1000 bills. He stowed the money away in his vest, and grinned, as he slowly winked his eye at the universe. For he was already worth over half a million.—Dr. Frank Crane in St. Louis Times.

"If April showers bring May flowers, what do April snowstorms bring?" Inquires the editor of the Boston Globe. Well, up here in New Hampshire snowshovels and profanity.—Laconia Democrat.

Twenty Millions
Are Incumbance

Miss Jennie Crocker is one of the greatest heiresses in the market. At the present moment, Miss Crocker is in pecunious London, or thereabouts. In short, she is voluntarily suffering the hospitality of a London season, without which the year of the modern American social belle is no longer considered complete. It may have become simply a habit with our own Jennie, however, as she has done it so often. Then possibly she finds it amusing—there being so many old and young lords and lordlets, knights and knightlets, and counts and countesses, always hanging around waiting an opportunity to propose to her. Miss Crocker's record abroad, we believe, is about one proposal a week, five to a long month. As yet she has steadily refused to come to the financial assistance of any of her suitors. When she gathers some one to her heart she wants to feel sure that it is not simply her shekels that he is gathering. What modesty when it is a woman's nature to think that every man loves her for herself! But Miss Crocker wants to feel perfectly sure in the matter. Unless she adopts a disguise and becomes a candy store girl or something somewhere, she may never be able to solve the question. What an incumbance twenty million dollars can be. It's only safe thing she could do in England would be to marry Lord Kitchener, who detests the sex and would not be easily won. But what a man! If the two could be brought together! As any rate, none of the other noble Saxons stand the shadow of a chance. But on one occasion a certain Lord thought he did. Miss Crocker became so bored that she exclaimed under her breath:

"Oh, my Lord"

And it was at least ten minutes before the gentleman understood that she had not spoken to him.—News Letter.

Recalls Sensational Assault

The approaching wedding in Petaluma of Mrs. Lillian Gamage to Dr. H. H. Fleissner, formerly of San Francisco, recalls the sensational divorce suit filed by the fair Mrs. Gamage in 1906 against her then husband, Jules Gamage Jr., son of Jules Gamage Sr., at one time a well-known lawyer and member of a prominent family. The elder Gamage ended his professional career by a sensational assault on Mr. Le Breton, whom he attacked with a dagger at the ferry building. Just as Le Breton was starting on a trip to Europe, and was in company with his wife and family. Gamage was seized and quickly disarmed by the bystanders before he had succeeded in cutting out Le Breton's heart, according to his sanguinary threat. Le Breton did not prosecute, and Gamage was released. The affair was of such a sensational nature that Gamage was afterward looked at askance by his brother legal lights. The younger Gamage, who married the prospective Mrs. Fleissner, the daughter of a prominent and wealthy Petaluma family, went East after his wife had secured her divorce and became associated with Colonel Kewelsky in looking after the business interests of the notorious old reprobate, King Leopold. Her friends have been showering her with congratulations. The couple, it is said, plan an extended honeymoon. They will make their home in Petaluma. As Lillian Lewis, Mrs. Gamage was known as the most beautiful girl in Santa Rosa, and her first marriage was a society event. She comes from a wealthy Southern family. Her sister, Edith Lewis, married Edward White, one of the wealthy landowners in Sonoma county. She is quite noted as a singer.—The Wasp.

They Might Have Eloped

Some of the more romantic people in society were a little disappointed when formal announcement of the engagement of beautiful Mary Keeney to Talbot Walker was made. These romantic ones secretly hoped that Miss Keeney would elope with the man of her choice. There was absolutely no reason why she should do anything of the sort, for both are in the same set and the marriage will be a perfectly satisfactory one to both families. But it seems that Helen Irwin, Charlotte and Emily Wilson, Florence Hopkins and Mary Keeney were at school together they made a schoolgirl vow that when the time for marriage came it would be by way of elopement. Emily Wilson wedded George Cuddehaver in conventional fashion and the romantic ones were disappointed. Helen Irwin broke her schoolgirl vow when she neglected to elope with Templeton Crocker. Now Mary Keeney has shown the same sort of weakness. The only remaining hope of the romantic ones is that Florence Hopkins will save the honor of the coterie by dashing off somewhere and getting married with all the sensational secrecy one reads about in romantic novels. But she is just as likely to succumb to the influence of formality and convention as the others.—Town Talk.

She Didn't Get Him

From New York comes the story of the grievous disappointment of a gay and ambitious grass-widow from this city whose engagement to a son of a New York millionaire was reported in the dispatches some months ago. This woman is her own press agent, and she has had great success in promoting publicity for herself as her first husband learned much of her embarrassment about the time that he found life with her to be unbearable and hid himself to Reno for salvation. On the income that she has since enjoyed combined with her captivating grace she has been able to cut a great swath both in Paris and New York. For a time it seemed as if she really had snared the son of the millionaire, but a short time ago he broke the news gently to her in her apartments in Fifth avenue that the fascination had worn off, and she immediately gave a melodramatic performance in a Leslie Carter that started the whole town. She was ordered to leave and did so, leaving her trunks behind to secure her bill. When last heard from she was on her way to Europe.—Town Talk.

Social Scepter
in Danger

Although Mrs. C. C. Alexander emphatically declared before leaving for Europe that she would take no part in the subscription dances next winter, there is much speculation already as to who will seek to wrest the social scepter from her hand. Last winter Mrs. Alexander was a close rival for the doughty Ned, and her dances were as popular as those given by the famous Arbitrator Ekegatanum whose reign dates from a time whence the memory of man runneth not. The result was more or less strife in social circles, and was responsible for Mrs. Alexander stating that "there is too much exclusiveness to make the position enviable." Those who are close to her state, however, that she will have a series of dances next winter which will make the Greenway assemblies seem small in comparison. Mrs. Alexander is a sister of Mrs. Mountford Wilson, who is also abroad at present. The Wilsons expect to remain in Europe until some time next spring. Mrs. Alexander is expected to return this fall, and it is whispered that she will bring back with her a number of European ideas which will add to the attractiveness of her affairs and give her a firmer grip on the social scepter.—The Wasp.

One of Her
Best Features

Mr. P. Moore is a well-known hotel man in San Francisco. Among the automobile people on Golden Gate and Van Ness avenues he has a reputation as a maker of cafes. He can feed a wind-swept appetite to a nicety, and his table d'hotes are nothing less than the revival of a lost art. Before he took up Van Ness avenue, after it had been deserted by the business element, there wasn't a place on it where a gourmand or epicurean could be sure of anything in the nature of his greed or wants. But Mr. Moore fixed all that. He is gray-mustached and fifty-years young. Very often of an afternoon, to study out dishes of a delicate and difficult nature probably, he goes to the park. The other day he met a lady of his acquaintance near the St. Francis Hotel there. She had come to practice in a garden, extremely harem, and was parading in front of the kangaroo enclosure, with the long-legged ones squatted on their haunches gazing at her. She was humming something, too, possibly "My Little Kangaroo," then suddenly the genial manager exclaimed:

"Oh, oh," exclaimed the lady, with becoming haremness. Then she explained how, for cover of a cloak, she had come out to practice on the animal before her daring to confront those beasts of men haunting the St. Francis lobby. But, of course, she didn't mind such an old friend as Mr. Moore—not a bit. Perhaps even he was a better judge than a kangaroo. She was going to make it a feature of the harem skirt—how did he like her in it. Striking his gray mustache and smiling his smile fifty years young, the gentleman, after careful and close observation replied:

"I think that it is one of your very best features."—News Letter.

Fred Knight's
Operatic Hopes

I am assured on good authority that Fred Knight is to seek success on the operatic stage. He is studying diligently with this end in view, having taken up dramatic art while he masters the roles of German opera. Mrs. Knight who is in Europe, wholly approves of his plan and the family club is watching the future star's progress in his ambition. Knight is the son of an attorney, George Knight, and possesses a fine baritone voice that has been heard frequently in Bohemian and Family Club revues. He has been urged to adopt a professional career by such a judge as David Bispham, but only in the past weeks seriously determined to follow the advice. Mrs. Knight, who believes her husband has a great future, is related by marriage to Princess David Kawanakoa, who was Miss Campbell of Honolulu. The mother of the Princess took for her second husband Colonel Sam Parker and his son was the first husband of Mrs. Fred Knight. He left her a fortune at his death and Mrs. Knight was a wealthy young widow when she married the young San Francisco clubman.—Town Talk.

Mrs. Elkins'
Engagement

When Mrs. Katherine Felton Elkins went East a couple of weeks ago her friends supposed it was to attend to business affairs. Judge their surprise when they learned of her engagement to William Nelson. It is said that the friends of the prospective groom are well high sixty years of age. He is a prominent lawyer and a man of considerable means. Many were equally surprised when they learned that Mrs. Elkins would be the terminus of her late husband's will be obliged to relinquish the Elkins' health in the event of her remarriage. The older friends of Mrs. Katherine did not come as a surprise. They were fully aware that her first marriage was far from happy and that she was not a favorite with her late father-in-law, who first accumulated his wealth as a wholesale butcher and owned the Chicago street railroads. Mrs. Elkins' two children, Felton Elkins and Miss Marie Louise, were left over one million apiece and are most devoted to their mother. Mrs. Elkins as Miss Katherine Felton met young Elkins, a young Harvard graduate, while on a visit to Washington with her father who was at the time United States Senator from California. The wedding which took place in the little church in Menlo Park some twenty-five years ago, was a society event. Mrs. Elkins belonged to the set which included Miss Hattie Crocker (now Mrs. C. B. Alexander of New York), Miss Nettie Tubbs (now Mrs. S. J. Oyster), Miss Jessie Kittle (now Mrs. William Hindley Taylor), Miss Flora Low and Miss Beale Slade (now Mrs. William Mayo Newhall). The death of Senator Felton's wife took place when his two children, Katherine (Mrs. Elkins) and Charles Felton were very young. They were reared by their aunt Mrs. George Loomis, the sister of the late Mrs. C. N. Felton. After the marriage of Mrs. Elkins and Mr. Nelson they will reside in Philadelphia.—Town Talk.

Low Hanchett,
a Millionaire

As a result of the successful sale of the street railway system of San Jose and Santa Clara to the Southern Pacific Company, Lewis F. Hanchett enters the millionaire class. The deal was made with Kuhn, Loeb & Company, bankers for the Southern Pacific, who are very closed-mouthed; so the consideration has not become public, but it is said that four millions were paid to Hanchett and to John Martin and Eugene de Sabla who were his associates in the deal. There is a story of hard work and independence behind the success which Hanchett has achieved. With his father he used to be in the cattle and mining business, without, however, making a big cleanup. Then Hanchett's sister married George Crocker and when Hanchett went into the street railway business in San Jose it was said that Crocker was backing him. As a matter of fact he never received assistance from his millionaire brother-in-law. He had many a day of hard sledding, but there has been no appeal to his wealthy relation. Now that he has crowned his years of hard work he has only himself and a close personal friend to thank. The manner in which he got into the street railway business is interesting. The German Savings Bank of this city held a mortgage on the street railways of San Jose. J. C. Campbell, the lawyer, put up $50,000 as an option to cover this mortgage, but found that it was hard to interest capital. Finally he went to Hanchett and told him that if he would take the option, save Campbell his $50,000, and protect the bank, he might have the properties. Hanchett went to New York and tried to interest the "Goulds," but without success. Then he went to Edwin Hawley, at that time a rising young railroad man, through whom the Southern Pacific got wind of his proposition. The big company tried to buy him out but he refused to sell. The Campbell option held only three days and then Hanchett despaired of swinging the deal when his friend Fred Tillman came to his assistance and advanced the money. Just what Hanchett paid is not known, but he never regretted his persistence. He knew he had a good thing and at last his greatest expectations have been realized.—Town Talk.

Two Figures to Consider

While music is in the air, a word about our San Francisco grand opera singer, Maude Fay, who has announced her engagement to Prince Luitpold of Bavaria. The announcement aroused a great deal of curiosity about her future plans, and there was a note of surprise that she should give up music for matrimony just when her goal was in sight—a season at the Metropolitan in New York. But the singer assures her family that she is not going to retire, but will continue to forge ahead. She says that matrimony and the Metropolitan are not incompatible, and she has not the slightest notion of giving up the chance to show America what she can do. It may be remembered that before Maude Fay made good in Munich she interviewed the Metropolitan manager, who looked her over, gave her advice, and passed her along. "You ought to arrive," he said. "You have a voice, youth and a good figure. Try yourself out on the other side."

"You like my figure now," responded Maude Fay, "but when I get back, I'll be the one to talk about figures. I'll see whether I like yours!"

And evidently she does like them, for she has signed a Metropolitan contract, which even a marriage to a Bavarian Prince is not going to part in the middle.—News Letter.

"The Acme of Snobbery"

"The Jeems Yellowplushes of the San Francisco society columns are snobs in their published writings every one of them, although as individuals they are very different outside of the newspaper offices." Here is a sentence culled from the editorial column of a San Jose paper with which has given me pause. The editor, in which it was set down bore the title, "The Acme of Snobbery" and the writer points his moral from the published story that the Princess Kawanakoa of Honolulu had been "commanded" to attend the coronation. Down in San Jose where democracy is a fetish and the monarchical form of government is hated this story seems to have aroused great indignation. This indignation is voiced by the editorial writer who points out that as the Princess is an American citizen she cannot be "commanded" by King George to do anything. Which is perfectly correct. But the editorial writer is quarrelling with words, not with the "Jeems Yellowplushes," if he only knew it. If a plain democratic invitation may be called a "bid," why may not a royal invitation be called a "command?" Kings delight in high-sounding words. Why not let them have their fill of them without complaining. If the San Jose editorial writer wishes to make out a case of snobbery against our bavardees, he should be able to find more pregnant material for his thesis. But it would cause me pain just the same. Our "Jeems Yellowplushes" are a joyous lot who contribute wonderfully to the gaiety of existence in this prosaic neck of the woods. I would not have their enthusiasm dampened for the world.—Town Talk.

Whom Does
Mrs. Atherton Mean?

Gertrude Atherton is nothing if not outspoken. She dares to say what is in her mind and has the cleverness that enables her to say it in phrases that sting, if the subject matter of her remarks happens to be critical. Over in London she has been talking about the American woman who invades the British capital with social ambitions. "One thing that strikes me as rather contemptible," says Mrs. Atherton, "is the number of wealthy American women who come over here and start off to try to get into society. They take houses and splurge tremendously. They are dazzled by going to court and try to get people of title at their houses. All this is rather ignoble." Now I wonder what woman or women Mrs. Atherton had in mind when she uttered these acid remarks. Is it possible that any Californian was included in her list?—Town Talk.

Society Woman
Leads

Mrs. Engracia Freyer, wife of Lieutenant Freyer, formerly the charming Engracia Critcher, came back from Guam with a baby, a plentiful supply of tan, and a fund of stories regarding her stay in Uncle Sam's far-away possession, the most humorous of which, was her fifty-mile "hike" round the island. As Engracia Critcher, Mrs. Freyer was known as one of the athletic society girls of San Francisco, and she could walk and ride in a manner to make many of the men in her set look with envious eyes. President Roosevelt started the 90-mile ride, or 50-mile "hike" for all the army officers, and it was to comply with these orders that the officers on Guam started on a "hike" for a "hike." But Guam is a hot island, and the sun beats down with tropical fury. It seems that some of the officers decided that the 50-mile "hike" order could not apply to the tropical possessions, and were about to consult the Navy and War Departments further, when the fair Mrs. Freyer called upon her husband and his associates to accompany her. The result was that the island was encircled, the 50 miles were walked, and the entire party had a good time, and Mrs. Freyer walked until the men wrote her a note saying they couldn't stop. An athletic wife is surely a valuable asset, for an army or navy officer, anyway.—The Wasp.

How Styles
Do Change

The modes change with revolutionary completeness. Also our insular possessions are extremely remote. The two propositions do not seem to have much in common but they have. For my present purpose they must be regarded as intimately related. Two years ago when the charming and vivacious Engracia Critcher married Lieutenant Freyer of the navy, (their romance growing out of the coming of the fleet around the world), the styles of women were quite different from those which prevail today. Women were wearing large pompadours, small hats and gowns of a cut that now seem alien and queer. Naturally, when Lieutenant Freyer was ordered to desolate Guam, his bride accompanied him; naturally, too, the charming Engracia took away with her the fashions of the moment. Now, down in Guam, the fashions do not respond to the feverish influence of the latest modes, they remain fixed for many years at a time. It is so very far away, you see. So when Mrs. Freyer returned to this city recently with her husband, she still wore the extinct modes of two years ago—pompadour, hat, gown and all. Her friends were astonished when they saw her, but speedily realized the situation. A hurried run to the modistes and the milliner in a closed taxi remedied the defects in Mrs. Freyer's wardrobe.—Town Talk.

He Remembered
His Friends

I saw Malcolm McDonald in the lobby of the Palace Hotel a few days ago and heard with considerable pleasure that his recent mining investments are going to put him in the millionaire class. Here is a man who deserves to be rich because he uses money to give pleasure to others. It was ten years ago that Malcolm McDonald made his first cleanup in Nevada and, as will never forget one night in the bar of the old Palace when he handed to Charles Morris, another Nevada miner, ten thousand dollars in crisp new bills. Morris looked at the money with amazement and interrogation depicted on his face. "Charlie," explained McDonald, "you have always been a mighty good friend to me and I want you to take this gift as a little token of my esteem." McDonald also dug up the names and addresses of his old playmates and school day friends and sent them sums ranging from one to five thousand dollars.—Town Talk.

Situation of
Alice Rix

I am told that Alice Rix O'Leary, who is at present in Europe, and residing at Frankfurt, is desirous of coming back to California. Some years ago the contributions of Alice Rix to the Examiner created a sensation in Journalism. She was one of the brightest women writers that ever belonged to the Examiner staff. While in Honolulu, representing the Hearst newspapers, Mrs. Rix met David O'Leary, a young newspaper man from San Francisco, and the couple were soon afterward married. Mrs. O'Leary about this time obtained considerable money from the sale of property in Boston, which had been left her. She and Mr. O'Leary went to Europe, and there she spent most of the money in an effort to finance a theatrical production. She believed that she had great dramatic ability and could make distinct success as a stage player. She only accumulated a mountain of debts, and was compelled to leave Paris to avoid creditors. The French creditors are not easily baffled, however. They enticed Mrs. O'Leary and her husband back from England on some pretext, and served writs upon them the moment they landed on French soil. This unfortunate experience made Mrs. O'Leary's financial condition worse than ever, and I hear that she is now at the end of her resources in Frankfurt. There are few situations that can be more unfortunate for an American than to be stranded in some large European city, for in Europe there is no room for impetuous strangers, and especially Americans. The latter are expected to come along with their pockets abundantly lined with greenbacks. Mrs. O'Leary's husband died about two months ago in New Jersey. He returned from Europe to New York two years ago. Mrs. O'Leary names and addresses of their friends, and will never forget one night in the bar of the old Palace when he handed to Charles Morris, another Nevada miner, ten thousand dollars in crisp new bills. Morris looked at the money with amazement and interrogation depicted on his face. "Charlie," explained McDonald, "you have always been a mighty good friend to me and I want you to take this gift as a little token of my esteem." McDonald also dug up the names and addresses of his old playmates and school day friends and sent them sums ranging from one to five thousand dollars.—Town Talk.

Maude Fay
a Princess

A real princess will claim San Francisco as her birthplace when Miss Maude Fay, the pretty California singer, becomes the bride of Prince Henri Luitpold of Bavaria, grandson of Prince Regent Luitpold, the nonagenarian sovereign, and cousin of the mad King Otto, as well as Queen Elizabeth of Belgium. In addition to all this, he is related to the Hapsburgs and the Bourbons, and is a Knight of the Order of St. Hubert, a Knight of the Black Eagle and possesses a string of titles that require two pages of a hotel register when he signs them all. Miss Fay will be the Princess Luitpold, and will have precedence over most of the American heiresses who have married titles or princesses. Miss Fay sang her way into the Bavarian prince's heart. She was leading soprano at the Munich Opera House, and was honored, by the Prince Regent for her marvelous voice. When Prince Luitpold first proposed marriage, the Regent suggested a morganatic alliance, giving her the title of Baroness; but this she scorned, and the sovereign finally yielded to the prince's importunities, and granted consent for the marriage. Maude Fay left San Francisco ten years ago to study singing in Europe. She is well remembered in this city, where she sang in private theatricals and at churches. She is a daughter of Philip Fay, who was a well-known stockbroker. Her brother, Charles Fay, was clerk of the board of supervisors for several years. When Miss Fay left San Francisco there was no trace of trumpet or prophesies as to her future. The first thing her San Francisco friends heard was that she had scored a triumph in Europe. She was in San Francisco last year on a short visit, and was welcomed by scores of her girlhood friends, who are now rejoiced to hear that she will make the most brilliant marriage of the year. Miss Fay's troupe is now being made in Paris, and, according to advices from Europe, her gowns will be worthy of Frank. The prince has already presented her with jewels which have been in his family for centuries and are regarded as heirlooms. The marriage of the California singer and the Bavarian nobleman will be one of the social events of the year in Europe.—The Wasp.

Five-fold Honor
Paid to Him

It isn't very often that any mere man finds himself the motif of more than one hostess, but a five-fold honor recently came to Frank Michael, who leaves shortly for an extended trip abroad. Michael is the dinner guest par excellence for a distinguished company. His protruding vest and well-padded six feet would to a stranger suggest a devotion to the palate, but Michael is in reality devoted to the delectable art of dinner conversation, and can always be depended upon to keep the talk at a brilliant pitch, while most men climbing towards a colossus of flesh confine their efforts to appreciating the chef's art. He is in great demand at dinner parties, where discussion of food and frivolity is not sufficient to make the affair a success. In return for the pleasant hours which the table, Mrs. Robert, Mrs. Horace B. Chase, Mrs. Louis Parrott, Mrs. James Robinson and Mrs. William Hindley Taylor gave a dinner party the other night in honor of Frank Michael, and as every one of these is skilled in the art of dinner giving, the combined effort was perfection itself.—News Letter.

They Couldn't
Feaze Si

From placid Centerville comes an interesting story concerning Colonel Roosevelt, Prexy Wheeler and a village blacksmith. The Colonel and the prexy were motoring to Berkeley and their car broke down as they passed through the sleepy hamlet. They were told that the only man in town who could tinkler their machine was Si, the village blacksmith, so they repaired to Si's smithy. They found him hard at work and stated their demand. "I'm busy," said Si, "and I have no time to fix you up." The prexy bristled. "But," he said, training an imperious look on the village smith, "I'm Benjamin Prexy Wheeler, president of the University of California, and this is Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, ex-president of the United States." Si shifted his quid, spat with deliberation and answered: "I don't give a hang who you are. Do you see those ploughshares? Well, I promised Bill Harrison to have 'em ready tomorrow morning and I'm going to have 'em for Bill on time." And Si went on with his work.—Town Talk.

The Preacher and the Ladies

Rev. Charles Aked is making a great hit with the ladies by his ardent espousal of woman's suffrage. They predict for him a great future in San Francisco on account of his attitude on the suffrage question. But the other preachers in town are in a state of panic. They are afraid that this clergyman who says that denominations are nothing to him and who regards creed as a triviality will become the star pulpit performer and increase the vacant spaces in their pews. Dr. Rader, I am told, has already expressed himself on the subject. And Dr. Rader's acquaintances predict that he will lose some sleep in quest of a hobby for a counter-agency.—Town Talk.

Protected
the Mahogany

The lower floor of the William Irwin home has been restored to its mahogany splendor. Only a very few guests at the Crocker-Irwin wedding realized that redwood panels had been put in over the splendid mahogany, for great quantities of flowers covered the walls. The guests who commended the Irwins for the absence of spectacular display did not realize that it was such a costly wedding affair, for enough redwood to finish the interior of a large-sized bungalow was temporarily put in so that the decorators could work out their floral scheme without marring the magnificent mahogany which, regardless of expense, was collected for the Irwin house. Enthusiastic letters came from the young couple, who will tour France in their motor before going to London.—News Letter.

They Can't Ride
on Passes

Recent restrictive legislation relating to railways enacted by the Interstate Commerce Commission and by the California Legislature has created a curious situation for some of our well known men. On account of a ruling by the Interstate body a stockholder in one railway corporation cannot use a pass over the lines of another railway. That is hard enough on the men who have never been in the habit of paying for their transportation, but our recent legislature complicated matters by passing a law which prohibits a shipper from accepting a pass on a railway with which he transacts shipping business. The men who have been embarrassed by the application of this law are J. C. Queale of Minneapolis and Berkeley, president of the McCloud River Railway; Frank G. Drum, president of the Yosemite Valley Railway; T. S. Bullock, president of the Yosemite Valley Railway; and G. W. Scott, president of the Yreka Railway. All these men men are interested in lumber or other corporations which ship over the rails which they own; so they cannot use passes on their own lines.—Town Talk.

Cudahy-Brewer
Nuptials

Society people are interested in the preparations for the wedding of Miss Leonore Brewer to Edward J. Cudahy, which will take place in San Mateo, Tuesday, April 25, Cudahy, who is healthy, which brought about a postponement of the marriage some time ago, and for awhile threatened to prevent the nuptials ever being celebrated, is now a thing of the past. During his recent trip to the South he not only recovered his health, but had many interesting and exciting adventures. In company with his father, he visited Escondido at the time the American Insurgent leadership General Stanley Williams was creating much havoc among the federal troops. It is said that the heli to the Cudahy millions was under fire at one time, but was not dismaged—at least no more than the ordinary man would be when placed in a similar position. The wedding will be a quiet one. Only the closest friends of the families have been invited to attend the ceremony, which will be held in St. Matthew's Catholic Church. Miss Amy Brewer will be her sister's attendant. Cudahy is now 30 years old, and his bride is 24. Miss Brewer is popular in Burlingame society. She is a sister of Mrs. John B. Casserty and a relative of Attorney T. C. Van Ness. Cudahy first came into the limelight ten years ago, when he was kidnapped by Pat Crowe, and was ransomed by Cudahy Sr. for $25,000, which the notorious Pat probably enjoyed, as none of it was ever recovered. Following the wedding the couple will have an elaborate breakfast at the Hotel Irwin in San Mateo, which a large number of friends will be invited, after which they will leave for an extended honeymoon. The couple will make their home in Chicago, and Miss Amy Brewer will live in the Illinois city with her sister.—The Wasp.

Thrill That Society Missed

They are whispering around in certain circles that society had a narrow escape the other day from another scandal of the kleptomaniac order. As the story goes, a lady prominent in society went to the studio of a famous photographer, who has taken more pictures of the elite than any knight of the camera on the Pacific Coast. This talented and titled artist is the possessor of one of the finest collections of kimono in San Francisco, and he makes a specialty of robing his customers in such garments before he takes their pictures. The society lady aforementioned concluded that she, too, would have her picture taken in kimono, and the photographer produced one of the finest in his collection. The sitting was a great success. The lady was immensely pleased, and departed happy. The photographer was in an equally enjoyable frame of mind until he found that his prized kimono had vanished. Nobody had taken the studio between the time of the sitting and the disappearance of the garment, but the society lady and her maid. The titled photographer unraveled the mystery with the rapidity and astuteness of a Sherlock Holmes and grabbed his telephone. Central connected him with the residence of his recent sister, and the lady herself soon answered the phone in a sweet tone. It was then that the photographer displayed the advantage of travel and education. He mentioned concluded that the disappearance of the kimono was a mistake, and which he is so noted. Instead of asking the lady brusque and awkward questions, he inquired in his most suave manner if it was within the bounds of possibility that the lady's maid had inadvertently wrapped up his kimono with the belongings of her mistress and carried it away in her suit case. Remarkable to relate, this surmise proved to be correct. After a brief delay, during which the lady catinized her maid, she no doubt reproved her for her inadvertence. The photographer was most politely informed over the phone that the missing garment had been found, just as he imagined it might be. In a short time the maid appeared at the photographic studio with the kimono and the thrilling incident was closed.—The Wasp.

Society Woman
in Business

Another bright society woman has entered the business world. I refer to Mrs. Fred Tallant, the sister of Vincent Whitney, who has taken up her late husband's insurance business. Mrs. Tallant was beautiful Helen Landers, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Landers and her husband who died last year, belonged to the well known Tallant family. Her sisters are Mrs. Stephen Brodie of Detroit and Mrs. J. J. Brice, and his father was a pioneer banker of San Francisco. Mrs. Tallant has brains with her beauty and her friends include Mrs. George Leed, a bridemaid at her wedding, Mrs. Osgood Hooker and Mrs. George Pope are delighted with her success. Another society woman who is making a success of insurance is Miss Cora Snodgrass, who is identified socially with the Burlingame set. Mrs. Randall Hunt, whose daughter, Natalie announced her engagement to Herbert Baker during the week is in real estate for a time. There is a large circle of business women in society who will welcome Mrs. Tallant to their midst.—Town Talk.

Treasures Moved to Cleveland

Letters from Cleveland to intimate friends give interesting details of the completion of the handsome home which the Patrick Calhouns are establishing in that city. Some of the choicest things from the Charleston home of the Calhouns have been transferred to Cleveland, and while this might seem a simple problem in transportation, it presented terrors to Mrs. Calhoun and stirred a great deal of feeling in Charleston, where the home is a "show place" and proudly press-agented by the "elite South." Visitors from the North are always told that some of the finest mahogany and silver can be seen there, and of course the people hated to see any of it go into the Middle West. But Mrs. Calhoun felt that she could have some of the things in Cleveland and yet not despoil the Charleston place, but she wavered between her own sentiment and her Southern friends' feelings in the matter, and finally decided that she would send some of the things to Cleveland.

The Calhouns did not establish themselves in a home of their own out here, so their San Francisco friends have not had an opportunity to see any of the wonderful things that have come down from both sides of the family. Besides their heirlooms from illustrious and wealthy forebears, Mrs. Calhoun has a well-disciplined passion for collecting—a discipline not affected through lack of means, but through a large understanding of what is really worth while, and in consequence her collection shows the restraint of highly selective understanding.

The Calhouns are not the type that Theodore Roosevelt worries about, for they have a house full of children. When they first came to San Francisco, Mrs. Henry T. Scott called at the house, and while waiting in the drawing room for Mrs. Calhoun, a cunning little girl poked her head in the doorway, and with solemn baby eyes regarded the visitor.

"Come in and let's be friends," coaxed the lady.

"Fank you," lisped the little girl, "but I can't be friends now cause Muvver won't allow me in the drawing room. You come to the nursery."

"I'm afraid 'Muvver' wouldn't like it," answered Mrs. Scott, and then in order to detain the cunning youngster longer, she asked:

"Are you the youngest in the family?"

"So far," responded the young hopeful

Clergyman
Is a Wit

Those who heard Dr. Aked at the First Congregational Church on Easter Sunday would scarcely guess that an individual of such sincerity and power was possessed beside of a sense of humor. Yet this is so, and it is a very subtle sense of humor at that. Of course, most of the lady members were eager to shake hands with the new pastor. Such a lot of charming women as they are, too. The modest and retiring Briton was literally besieged with welcome. But under the circumstances he stood the ordeal well. He is not only a man of rare character, but a very likeable fellow besides. He has a personality that bugs friends like the sun brings out the May buds. As for his sense of humor—well—standing in a group of ladies, one of the suddenly inquired of him:

"You have been married, or are you?"

It was a most impulsive, childish question.

"Considering that I am only a man," replied the doctor evasively, and with a smile, "I suppose it would still be 'have been' whether I am or not."

The Doctor is evidently at one with Bernard Shaw in the belief that it is the woman who holds the matrimonial whip, and drives the man to the ceremony.—News Letter.

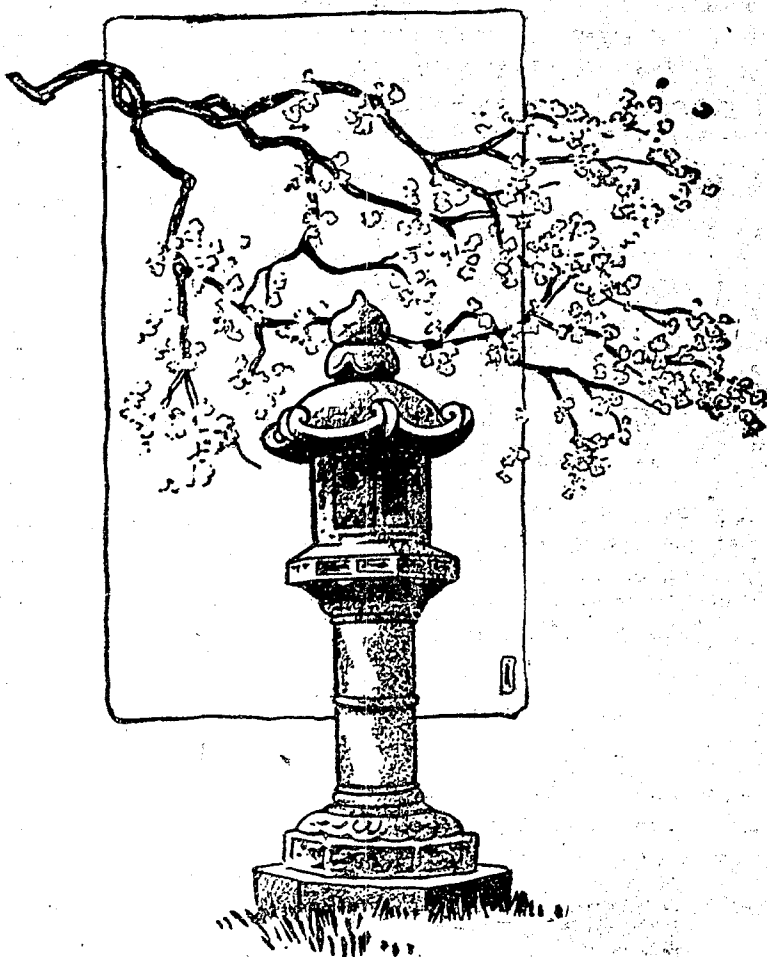

Mrs. Casey
Stricken

Mrs. Maurice Casey who was stricken with paralysis on a visit to San Jose this week is one of the best known women in society. She was formerly Mrs. Dillon, the mother of Kate Dillon who with Mrs. Henry Crocker inherited the millions of the late Mrs. McLaughlin. Mrs. Winship came from her home in Georgia after the recent death of her step-father and has been at her mother's bedside. The Casey mansion on Broadway and Broderick which is one of the show houses of the neighborhood, was built by Mrs. Winship who turned it over to her mother when she went east to live. She also owned a residence in Ross Valley which the Caseys occupied during the summer. Mrs. Casey has been ill at the home of her brother W. G. Fosgate in San Jose where she was stricken Tuesday afternoon. Her children, Margaret and Harold Casey, were summoned from San Francisco.—Town Talk.

Cupid in an Aeroplane

Cupid has forsaken his bow and arrow. Henceforth he kills in an aeroplane—at least, whenever the opportunity is afforded him. Clarence H. Walker, millionaire clubman and aviator, is one of his latest victims, the girl in the case being Miss Caro-Bovins of San Mateo. Having had a tip from the little fellow, with the quiver, this journal announced that such a thing was in the happening some little time ago. Now like most other Looker On predictions, it has come to pass. Whenever the young aviator flies, Miss Bovins, according to his wish, is always on hand to wave him his voyage. And whenever she is on hand, her friends cannot help but notice her heart throbs and her embarrassment. She is one of the most charming girls in San Mateo society. As a honeymoon, the couple will tour the entire globe. Besides his wife, the aviator will take along his flying machine. What better wings could Cupid desire? Her friends are all beseeching the young lady to tell them as to just when the wedding will take place. To one of them she replied, laughing: "Oh, perhaps not till fall; and maybe, then, in Mr. Walker's aeroplane." "Fall!" repeated disappointedly the fair questioner, who is possessed of a bright wit. "Oh, I see. In an aeroplane, fall means any time."—News Letter.

Today no efficient architect will design a plan, whether it be for a towering skyscraper or a modest home, without piping the building for gas in addition to the electric wiring.

Gas is the greatest help the modern housewife knows. The woman who has once used a gas range or gas water heater will never be without them.

Men like Welsbach have given gas a new place in the lighting field, increasing its efficiency and reducing its already low cost.

To furnish you with a superior illuminating and heating gas at a minimum cost is the purpose of the

PICTURESQUE GROUNDS TO BE SCENE OF ANNUAL FESTIVAL

MISS MATILDA BROWN, president of the Ladies' Relief Society and chairman of the general committee arranging the annual fete to be given for benefit of the society. Webster, Photo.

In the picturesque grounds of the Old Foster place now known as the Bred and Bancroft block, Webster and Orchard streets, the annual May fete for the benefit of the Ladies' Relief Society will be held May 6. On that occasion the grounds which were formerly the scene of many functions attended by the most exclusive members of the smart set, the memories of former days will be revived with merriment and the carnival spirit will prevail throughout the day.

The fete given in the past by the Ladies' Relief society will be surpassed by the coming affair, which will be one of the notable social events of the year. Last year the fete was given in Mosswood park, where hundreds of society folk gathered to swell the fund for charities' sake and the efforts of the managers and directors of the Ladies' Relief society were rewarded with a large sum with which to carry on the noble work of the organization.

TO PRESIDE AT BOOTH.

The booths will be presided over by the most attractive young matrons, who move in the exclusive social and club circles of this community and they will be assisted by a coterie of young girls.

During the afternoon a card tournament will be conducted in the palatial Foster home by Mrs. Henry M. Bull, who will be aided by a company of pretty young ladies. This game will be similar to that given in Babel last recently and will be one of the social affairs of the season. It is expected that representatives from the leading social and club circles will take part in the tourney.

Music will be furnished by the Boys' Retreat Band, while the patrons visit the different concessions, which will be located in all parts of the grounds.

Miss Matilda Brown, president of the Ladies' Relief society and chairman of the general arrangement committee announced that the Foster home has been turned over to the society for the day and the golden keys with which to unlock the doors of the various apartments of the mansion have been placed in her hands. For many years Miss Brown has presided over the destiny of the Relief society, which shelters about 70 old people and about 150 boys and girls and babies.

OFFICERS OF ASSOCIATION.

The officers, directors and managers of the Ladies' Relief society of Oakland who will assist in the fete are: Mrs. E. G. Mathews, honorary director; Miss Matilda Brown, president; Miss A. E. Miner, Mrs.

Spencer Browne, Miss Campbell, Miss Bakewell, Miss Louise de Fremery, Mrs. H. S. Kergan, Mrs. R. A. Wellman, Mrs. Jefferson Maury, Mrs. H. D. Kates, Mrs. E. C. Williams, Mrs. P. F. ## DON'T BE BALD

Almost Any One May Secure a Splendid Growth of Hair.

You can easily find out for yourself if your hair needs nourishment, if it is thinning, getting dry, brittle, or splitting at the ends. You simply have to pull a hair from the top of your head and closely examine its root. If the bulb is plump and rosy it is all right; if it is white and shrunken your hair is diseased and needs nourishment.

We have a remedy for hair troubles that cannot be surpassed. It has a record of growing hair and curing baldness in 93 out of 100 cases where used according to directions for a reasonable length of time. It will even grow hair on bald heads if the scalp is not glazed and shiny. That may seem like a strong statement—it is, and we mean it to be, and no one should doubt it until they have put our claims to an actual test.

We are so sure that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic will completely eradicate dandruff, prevent baldness, stimulate the scalp and hair roots, falling hair, and grow new hair, that we personally give our positive guarantee to refund every penny paid us for Rexall "93" Hair Tonic in every instance where it does not do as we claim or fails to give entire satisfaction to the user.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is as pleasant to use as clear spring water. It is perfumed with a pleasant odor, and does not grease or gum the hair. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1. We urge you to try Rexall "93" Hair Tonic on our recommendation and with our guarantee back of it. You certainly take no risk. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Remedies only at the Owl Drug Co., Inc., Tenth and Washington, Thirteenth and Broadway, Sixteenth and San Pablo avenue.

"I want everybody to try this dessert."

E. LEHNHARDT.

It is one of the best I ever made and you'll miss a real treat if you do not secure a brick. In fact it is my personal opinion that it is the best combination I have offered since the New Year brick, which made such a hit just after last Christmas.

It is as follows:

PINEAPPLE ICE CREAM

RASPBERRY WATER ICE

VANILLA ICE CREAM

50c for a quart brick if you call at the store.

25c for a pint brick if you call at the store.

80c for a quart brick if we deliver it.

REMEMBER THIS—In the making of these desserts we use only the finest of pure cream and our own preserved fruits. These fruits are put up, in season, in glass jars and no expense is spared to make them just as fine as possible. Quality is all we work for, and if it ever becomes necessary to make a greater margin of profit we will raise our prices and never, under any circumstances, reduce the quality.

JORDAN. FOUNDS ANANIAS CLUB

President of Stanford Declares Charges Against Son Are Untrue.

SAN MATEO, April 22.—President David Starr Jordan of Stanford university has founded an Ananias club in rivalry to the original organization of that name bearing the T. R. brand. He will distinguish it by calling it the Jordan Ananias club.

The charter members of the J. A. club are all persons who declare that Knight Jordan, his son, was driving his automobile beyond the speed limit April 14 near Belmont.

The grand high potentate of the club is Justice of the Peace Porter Lamb of Burlingame, who had the temerity to find Jordan guilty of speeding after the young man had pleaded guilty to the charge and fined him $15. Next in line for an office of distinction in the new brotherhood is Michael Brown, the officer who arrested the college president's son.

JORDAN IS INDIGNANT.

In a letter written yesterday to District Attorney Franklin Swart of San Mateo, President Jordan vents his feelings on the subject and asks for a rigid investigation of what he terms an outrage. He charges that the court and the arresting officer are guilty of violating their oath of office and that the arrest was a "conspiracy" and the fine an "extortion."

The letter concludes by declaring that if any one says that Knight Jordan violated the speed law at the time and place named said person is guilty of perjury.

In addition to Justice Lamb and Officer Brown, Swart also qualifies for membership in the club, for he says: "I am not at liberty either to deny or affirm the report that President Jordan has asked me to investigate his son's arrest or that he has made written charges against Lamb and Brown. Knowing Brown as I do, I am satisfied that Jordan operated his car at a speed far greater than twenty miles an hour, which the law allows."

DRUMMER EVANGELIST TO SPEAK TOMORROW

Billy Williams, the "drummer evangelist," closed the first week of his services at the Union Street Presbyterian church on last evening, his subject being "The Sin Against the Holy Ghost."

Today at noon, he conducted a shop meeting at the cabinet department of the Southern Pacific shops, and tomorrow will conduct four services, two in the morning at the Centennial Methodist church, and two in the afternoon and evening respectively at the Union Street Presbyterian church.

THE SOUND SLEEP OF GOOD HEALTH Cannot be over-estimated, and any ailment that prevents it is a menace to health. J. L. Southern, Eau Claire, Wis., says: "I have been unable to sleep soundly nights, because of pains across my back and soreness my kidneys. My appetite was very poor and my general condition was much run down. I have been taking Foley Kidney Pills but a short time and now sleep as sound as a rock, my general condition is greatly improved, and I know that Foley Kidney Pills have cured me." Webster's Drug Store, corner Tenth and Washington streets.

Druids, Attention!

On April 25 to 29, inclusive, the Western Pacific Railroad will sell tickets to Livermore and return for $1.60, account A. U. O. D. Carnival. Final return limit, May 1. See W. B. Townsend, 1188 Broadway, near Fourteenth, depot Third and Washington.

Rummage Sale

for the benefit of Fabiola Hospital, to be held on Wednesday, April 26, and Saturday, April 28, at 9:30 a. m. sharp, 353 Twelfth street, corner Webster.

INVENTORY OF JEWELS MADE

Tourists Register Gems and Furs With Port Surveyor Before Evening.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—San Franciscans leaving for Europe and carrying jewelry and furs with them are registering those articles with Customs Surveyor Duncan E. McKinley for the purposes of identification so that when they return to the United States they will not be obliged to pay duty on them. Among those persons who have had jewelry and wearing apparel registered this week are Charles Sutor and Mrs. Marie Sutor, Mrs. Ella M. Pierce, Mrs. E. A. Morbio of Berkeley, Mrs. J. H. Neustadter, Mrs. Elizabeth J. Knight, Miss Thelma Parker, Mrs. H. W. Westphal, Mr. and Mrs. Leon L. Rose, Mrs. J. Morris, Mrs. Ella K. Hotelling and Mrs. Hanna Walter.

A complete description of all furs and jewels, together with an estimate of their value, is taken by the customs officers, so that when brought back to this country they may be passed through the custom house without unnecessary delay.

ANOTHER PIEDMONT TRACT OPENED

Piedmont Manor Is the Latest Addition to the Many Beautiful Residential Sections of Greater Oakland.

After a year of careful thought and planning and at the culmination of one of the most interesting and truthful advertising campaigns ever published in the West, the Realty Syndicate have arrived at the formal opening day for Piedmont Manor, probably the most artistically arranged subdivision ever offered to home-seekers in Alameda county.

That today's sale will be a success is already proven by the number of people interested in this property, and that every lot in the tract will be sold by Sunday night is by no means unlikely. Mr. Nat M. Crossley, general manager of the Realty Syndicate, stated yesterday that the interest aroused by the announcement of today's sale was greater than he had ever observed in the opening of subdivisions.

"I have never seen such interest taken in a project of this kind," said Mr. Crossley. "And although we anticipated a great success, we had no idea that we would be able to sell so many lots, as it seems that we will do now. The cause of this public interest can be traced to the fact that we are giving home-seekers something that they have been looking for for years, and offering it to them at prices and on terms easily within their reach."

"The wide lots and the artistic arrangement of the property has made an irresistible appeal to everyone with its proximity to the Key Route and its charming environment made a combination of attractions that no home-seeker could help but realize."

Mr. Crossley intimated that the Realty Syndicate were going to make Piedmont Manor the show place of all their tracts, and that they would develop it even more beautifully than present buyers realize. His idea is to use it as a future reference of the Syndicate's subdivision work, and judging from the contracts already let, it will grow into one of the most charming neighborhoods in all of Piedmont.

There is no question but that the property is worth considerably more than is being asked for it. In fact, if the Syndicate had wanted to sell a lot and had allowed no one to see the property, it would have sold for a price nearly double the quotation asked at the present time.

It has been the Syndicate's contention, however, ever since Mr. Crossley took up the management of affairs, that the greatest ultimate gain lies in allowing clients to make profits, which idea is clearly exemplified in the pricing of the tracts of Piedmont Manor.

The property was laid out by Mr. Jas. H. L'Honnemieu, assisted by Oscar Prager, both of whom are landscape architects of note.

The situation was carefully studied and a practical and artistic plan was devised along entirely new lines, covering the entire property, giving proper attention to the parking features, and allowing for sufficient width in the streets to avoid all crowding and to permit the erection of the wide, rambling bungalow type of homes so prevalent in the better sections of America.

JAPANESE TO SETTLE ON 5000 TEXAS ACRES

GALVESTON, Texas, April 22.—J. I. Ito, claiming to represent a Japanese company, has closed a deal for nearly 500 acres of land near the Gulf coast and extending into Starr, Nueces and Hidalgo counties. It is planned to establish a Japanese colony of rice growers and the first settlers will be brought from Mexico.

Ito said that he made a tour of the coast country of Texas three years ago and another about eighteen months ago and invested in several small tracts of land.

"Conditions for rice-growing are not favorable in Mexico," he said, "and many of our countrymen will come from there before next winter, another hundred will come over from Japan and settle on these lands."

EVEN CURES ULCERS

Remarkable Results From Ec-zema Remedy That Costs Almost Nothing.

No matter how bad a sore or ulcer afflicts you, the pure skin food, will cure it. In fact, if you use the cure, the purchase price will be refunded.

Osgood Bros., the local agents for HOKARA, who have sold hundreds of packages the last few weeks, say they have yet to find any form of wound or disease affecting the skin that HOKARA does not heal, and its relief is so instantaneous that those who try it are simply delighted with it. Pimples, eczema, blackheads, acne, barber's itch, and all skin troubles are quickly cured by applying this simple skin food and the cure is permanent. It contains no grease or acids and is cleanly to use.

Osgood Bros. are selling a liberal jar of HOKARA at the low price of 25c.

SEEK FACTORIES FOR THIS CITY

Chamber of Commerce at Work on Plans to Bring Plants Here.

The Oakland Chamber of Commerce is making every effort to bring new manufacturing and other plants in this city and to impress the need of them on the business interests of the section.

Through inquiries made by Secretary A. A. Denison it is learned that other cities in this part of the state are successfully encouraging manufacture to build plants within their city limits. As an illustration of this Denison cites the instance of C. J. Hurie, who after negotiations with the Commercial League of Palo Alto, has secured a free deed to certain property in that town when buildings for a glass factory are completed upon it, and the finished product is placed upon the market.

Hurie notified the Chamber of Commerce of acquiring a site for a plant in Oakland.

WILL SCARLETT'S PLAY TO BE SEEN HERE

"The Shyster," a sketch written by Will Scarlett, a member of the faculty of St. Mary's college, and produced for the first time Thursday evening at the entertainment given by the alumni of the Christian Brothers, will be given again on May 15, at St. Mary's.

Edward Martin will be in the title role, and Elmo Leonhardt will enact the bulldozing district attorney. The others in the sketch were Charles Moul as Judge Brady, Clifford Russell as Enright, a reporter, and Timothy Shea as Manners, a servant.

DEMANDS RESIGNATION. SEATTLE, April 22.—Nothing short of the word sensation describes what followed when Recall Mayor George W. Dilling notified Fire Chief John H. Boyle that if his resignation is not filed by 12 o'clock noon Monday he would be removed. The fire chief, who is a veteran of the department and hero of many hot fires during his sixteen years' service, is protected by the civil service and will not resign.

OFFICERS' PURSES ARE HARD HIT

Army Men Must Wear Expensive Uniforms Instead of Civilian Clothes.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—A new edict has gone forth from the War Department at Washington which has already brought woe to the pocketbooks of youthful army officials at the Presidio. The new rule is that no civilians' togs nor even variegated hose can be worn by the officers at any social affairs at military posts, but that the full dress uniform only is to be worn.

When it is considered that the full dress army garb costs each young lieutenant and captain just $150 it readily can be seen where their pocketbooks will suffer.

And who is to blame for this new edict? Some say the society girls, because of their difficulty at the various military hops in distinguishing between ordinary citizens and officials in citizens' clothes. At any rate the new law has been made and now the clankhammer suit, the tuxedo coat and the gay colored hosiery must be laid on the shelf.

THE largest social affair held in any private home at Berkeley this year, was the reception given by Mrs. Frank J. Woodward on Thursday afternoon, at her home in Piedmont avenue.

The Woodwards have one of the most attractive homes in that college town—a very beautiful home planned along most artistic lines. And Mrs. Woodward, who is very charming and very talented, with a great deal of tact also, is rapidly making her home one of the largest social centers of Berkeley. Mrs. Woodward was formerly Miss Dell Chapman, and her sister, Mrs. Martin, of Los Angeles, was formerly Sylvia Chapman. They were very talented girls, and of good family, and they made many friends in their Oakland home—friendships which they have carried on into later days.

Mrs. Woodward is very popular also with the younger set in Berkeley, and her bright daughter, Gwendolen, who is very young, and is still in school, is the center of a circle of most interesting young girls.

Mrs. Woodward, who is a cultured young matron, is quite as popular with the college set as with the other prominent sets of Berkeley. The latter city is developing a charming social center, and in homes like Mrs. Woodward's, social life finds its best development. The decorations of the home on Thursday were specially elaborate and the color scheme was attractive.

RECEIVES GUESTS IN DRAWING ROOM.

Mrs. Woodward received her guests in the large drawing room, which was beautifully decorated in lovely wisteria, in pale lavender tones. Purple and white iris, most artistically arranged, added to the charming color scheme.

The hall was in purple and white, branches of the purple and white wisteria making superb color tones.

In the dining room the spirit of spring was the inspiration for the decorations. Everywhere there were beautiful white blossoms and the lovely Duchesse roses in tints of pink added an artistic color note to the elaborate scheme.

Mrs. Woodward was gowned in lavender, the corsage being beautifully trimmed in lace. Lavender orchids completed a costume exquisitely planned.

Mrs. Woodward's large reception was given in honor of Mrs. Henry Alonzo Noble, who is a close friend of Mrs. Woodward and who has recently established a home in Berkeley. Mrs. Noble was also beautifully gowned, and she has such a charming personality that she bids fair to prove a most welcome addition to Berkeley's smart set.

The members of the receiving party were also most attractively gowned, and those from Oakland who assisted Mrs. Woodward in receiving her guests were:

Mrs. Churchill Taylor Mrs. Clarence Crowell
Mrs. Everett Brown

In the receiving party from Berkeley were:

Mrs. R. F. Weston Mrs. John A. Weston
Mrs. Ira Campbell Mrs. William Weston
Mrs. Clinton Day Mrs. Arthur Nahl
Mrs. Frank Lipman Miss May Cutler
Mrs. J. Fred Noble Miss Carol Day
Mrs. Walter Parker Mrs. J. R. Laine
Mrs. Samuel Marks Miss Helen Weston

Among the many prominent people invited from Oakland were:

Mrs. Wickham Havens Mrs. Henry Weatherbee
Mrs. Edward Engs Mrs. Howard Bray
Mrs. E. D. Yorker Mrs. E. J. Boyes
Miss Elizabeth Yorker Mrs. Ernest Boyes
Mrs. John F. Connors Miss Phoebe Smith
Miss Mollie Connors Mrs. H. C. Capwell
Mrs. William High Mrs. Harry Carlton
Mrs. J. Loran Pease Mrs. J. H. Mathews
Mrs. George Gross Mrs. Benjamin Smith
Mrs. Mark Requa Mrs. Arthur Breed
Mrs. Gordon Stoop Miss Mabel Gray
Mrs. Fred Stoop Mrs. Arthur Holland
Mrs. J. R. Scupham Mrs. Moseby
Mrs. Churchill Taylor Mrs. Percy Black
Mrs. Frank Watson

In Berkeley there are many sets as there are in all college towns, each one of which is of social prominence. Many from the University circle were included in Mrs. Woodward's invitations, and among other prominent people invited from Berkeley were:

Mrs. Charles Butters Mrs. D. B. Hunter
Mrs. Frank Weston Mrs. Jere Burke
Mrs. Edwin Blake Mrs. Henry Martinez
Mrs. Philip H. Boone Mrs. J. K. McLean
Mrs. William E. Colby Mrs. George Reinhardt
Miss Lois Crosby Miss Sarah Snell
Mrs. Clinton Day Miss Helen Weston
Mrs. W. H. Davenport Mrs. Edward Wickson
Mrs. George Flitidge Miss Wicksen
Mrs. Charlie Goddard

TEA AT BERKELEY HAS DIFFICULTIES.

A tea at Berkeley is sometimes a very difficult proposition for Oakland proper. Sometimes you find yourself in the heart of the college set, and its members are most conservative. And sometimes you go to a tea where you find yourself very much outside of things. That always happens when you know only a few people.

But in Mrs. Woodward's home every one had a good time. She knows so many people worth while, and the day was so charming, that most of her friends accepted her welcome invitation. Elaborate refreshments were served during the afternoon; a stringed orchestra added to the gaiety of the scene; one met many of one's friends in the heart of the happiest environment. There were lovely flowers everywhere, beautifully gowned women made one welcome, and a charming hostess, offered in most abounding measure the generous hospitality of her home.

So the reception was a brilliant affair, the most important social date given in Berkeley this season, and altogether a thoroughly successful and enjoyable "at home."

EBELL CARD PARTY HAS TALES TO TELL.

"Thereby hangs a tale." That is what Shakespeare said in so many of his plays, just before he told an unusually interesting story.

Kipling is very fond of ending a chapter with, "And that is another story"—and then you know that there is a tale worth while in store for you.

And in regard to the Ebell Club card party, one might say with a sigh of satisfaction, "Thereby hangs a tale," and indeed there are many tales that might be told, all of them interesting.

The area all about the Ebell Club for many blocks was a unique spectacle, for hundreds of hats were wending their way to the club house.

They were mostly so large that you forgot for the most part the people under them. One thought of acres and acres of a great ostrich farm, for ostrich feathers innumerable floated out upon the breeze. One thing was definitely settled, the big hat is still in the ascendancy, and the big waving plumes on it cost a small fortune. That was one's first impression of the card party, hats, and again hats, and feathers galore!

For a real point of view, one can always choose the landing of a wide staircase. That is where Longfellow's famous old clock learned so much. Every one drifts by you there, and in passing, the gossip of the hour drifts to you also. For instance, at Ebell, on the landing, you heard of the woman who gave up her table at the last moment, without a word of regret. And you heard of several who did not tell their hostesses till the last minute that they would not be present, so the tables were of course a player short, and the distracted hostesses were running about trying to find players at the last moment.

The Ebell Club said "no prizes," which was quite right, as it would cost too much money to provide prizes for all the tables, but that does not mean at all that there were actually no prizes given. A hostess did as she pleased, and if it pleased her to send a prize to the winner at her table, she did so. And if a check found its way to settle a score—well, very few people are the wiser. And all that, and much more, you might have found out, if you were "a listener on the landing!"

We hear a great deal about the disagreeable woman at bridge, perhaps because she is so rare that she is unique. One hears very little about the great number of women who play an average game, who have learned to play bridge, because it is one of the accomplishments of the day. They are always perfectly well bred, very courteous and considerate; a prize means nothing to them, and it is a rare pleasure to play with them. There is a companionship that is charming, and a truly well bred woman is the most interesting person in the wide world. And most of the bridge players one knows are really thoughtful, well bred women.

Considering that there were more than 500 players, there was very little confusion in the large auditorium and other assembly rooms of the club. There was a restful atmosphere, and the games went on in a most attractive environment. There is really very little confusion when the word goes out, "Make your own rules for each table," and so all the players were satisfied, and every one had a good time. The experiment was certainly worth trying, and the Ebell Club scored the financial success for which the party was planned.

One met scores of one's friends at the Ebell Club on Tuesday, and that was one of the rarest charms of the afternoon.

Mrs. William G. Henshaw entertained two tables of guests, among the latter being Mrs. J. P. Neville, Mrs. Harry Chickering, Miss Florence Henshaw and Miss Emma Farrier.

Mrs. Henshaw wore a gown in black and white effects, with a wide black hat with black plumes.

Mrs. J. P. Neville wore an attractive afternoon gown in white, with trimmings of blue, and a hat in tones of blue.

Miss Emma Farrier, who has such charming manners, wore a handsome gown of white, with a long lace coat.

Mrs. J. Walter Scott entertained guests at two tables, and she was gowned in white broadcloth, with a white hat.

Mrs. Charles Leonard Smith was a member of the receiving party, and she wore a most becoming gown of yellow liberty satin, made with the new tight skirt and beautifully trimmed in lace.

Mrs. Charles H. Rowe was also in the receiving party, and she was a hostess at two tables. Mrs. Rowe looked exceedingly well in a dainty lingerie gown of white over pink satin, the gown very attractively trimmed in lace.

One of the most charming of the younger matrons was Mrs. Edward de Laveaga (Delight Woodbury) who wore an extremely artistic costume, all in tones of brown.

Mrs. Elizabeth Yorker were one of the most beautiful gowns of the afternoon. It was of chiffon, of an exquisite shade of lavender, the corsage handsomely hand embroidered in silver. Mrs. Yorker wore appropriate ornaments in amethysts.

Among the guests at Mrs. T. C. Coogan's table were Mrs. Harry Smith, Mrs. E. B. Beck and Mrs. Hayward Thomas.

Mrs. Frank L. Brown, who entertained a number of guests, was gowned in black satin. A wide hat in tones of black was elaborately trimmed with many black aligrettes.

Two of the most stunning guests of the afternoon were Mrs. J. Loran Pease and her sister, Mrs. George Gross.

Mrs. Gross wore a gown of black and white, and the wide hat, which set off the gown, was effectively trimmed in the fashionable cerise.

Miss Mabel Gray, who was Mrs. Henshaw's guest, wore a costume in tones of pink, and one noticed that lavender was by far the most fashionable color at the card gathering.

Mrs. Ralph Kinney, who was the hostess of the day, was beautifully gowned in gray messaline trimmed in lace.

Mrs. Edson Adams wore a tailor gown of black, with a black hat to match the gown.

Exquisite and beautiful gowns were worn by Mrs. Ella Bacon Soule and Miss Carrie Bacon. They were of flowered chiffon, over satin, and were, by far, the most artistic costumes of the afternoon. Mrs. Soule and Miss Bacon distributed the leis to the fortunate players of the afternoon.

Mrs. Percival Walker was another hostess of the afternoon, and she is one of the Oakland young matrons, who has established a record for her good taste in dress.

Mrs. Walker wore a flowered gown, made in newest effects, and set off by an exceedingly wide hat, lined in green, and carrying superb plumes. It was a hat that very few people could wear, but it made an exquisite study of Mrs. Walker.

Mrs. Egbert Stone was gowned in black, and her wide hat was trimmed in roses.

The Will Meeks have returned from Antioch, and Mrs. Meek, who was gowned in white broadcloth, was one of the guests at the card party.

Mrs. Minor Goodall wore a tailor costume of blue satin, and Mrs. James Allen wore an extremely attractive gown of flowered chiffon.

Among the handsome and appropriate costumes of the afternoon were those worn by

Mrs. Fanny Thomas Mrs. J. R. Farrell
Mrs. A. F. Merriman Mrs. Frank Woodward
Mrs. Edward Remillard Mrs. J. F. Smith
Mrs. Wm. E. Sharon Mrs. Charles Lovell
Mrs. Charles J. Wood Mrs. Thomas Phoebe
Mrs. Hume Mrs. W. Williamson
Mrs. Auerbach Mrs. Gordon Stoop
Mrs. J. R. Scupham Mrs. W. A. Schrock
Mrs. William E. Davis Mrs. Elsie Numbauer
Mrs. George Kloop Mrs. Frank B. Ogden
Miss Wilcox Mrs. Bert Hubbard
Mrs. D. H. Mathews Mrs. J. W. McCly-
Mrs. George Rodolph monds
Mrs. H. C. Capwell Mrs. Vance McCly-
Miss Julia Colby monds
Mrs. Gilbert Curless Mrs. James McIntire
Mrs. Hathaway Mrs. Margaret Dunn
Mrs. Harry Carlton Mrs. Hugh Hogan
Mrs. A. R. Doherty Mrs. C. W. Arnes
Mrs. Guy C. Eard

Before the bridge game began, there was the installation of the officers for the new year, Miss Sarah Horton presiding, with much dignity, at the exercises.

It has given great pleasure to the members of the club, that Mrs. Woodward, is to preside over its destinies for the coming year, and the programs arranged for the next season promise to be unique, original and interesting.

MRS. MONTELL TAYLOR ENTERTAINS FRIENDS.

Mrs. Montell Taylor was one of the delightful hostesses of the week, entertaining about fifty friends at bridge, at the first of a series of bridge afternoons which she is planning to give this season.

Miss Taylor's artistic home on Webster street was a charming study in decoration, carrying out lavender and white tones in fleur de lis.

Nearly all of the guests were fine bridge players, which added to the enjoyment of the afternoon, and the prizes were very pretty indeed—dainty blotting pads, most artistically planned.

A feature of the bridge afternoon were the gowns worn by many of the guests, most of whom were well known young matrons.

Mrs. Montell Taylor, the hostess, looked exceedingly well in a lovely gown of pink, the corsage elaborately trimmed in lace. She was assisted in receiving her guests by her sisters, Mrs. McClure Gregory and Miss Clarence Lohse. Mrs. Gregory made a lovely study in a gown of white, with silver trimming, and Miss Lohse is one of the very few young girls who are able to wear lavender with fine effect. She makes a dainty study, quite as if she stepped out of a French picture.

Mrs. Churchill Taylor looked extremely well, in a beautiful gown of hand embroidered Chinese crepe, made with the new clinging lines.

Mrs. Felton Taylor was in black and white, the combination which has been so fashionable this season. The handsome gown was set off by a wide hat, elaborately trimmed in black plumes.

Mrs. John Connors wore a handsome gown of cream lace, with the new straight line effects. The costume was completed by a wide white hat, trimmed in roses.

Mrs. Wickham Havens wore a gown of black satin, with a picture hat to match the gown.

Mrs. George Gross looked exceedingly well in a gown of white, with a large white hat to match the gown.

Mrs. J. Loran Pease wore a gown in dainty Dresden effects in pink and blue, with a hat trimmed also in tones of pink. It was a very dainty and very becoming costume.

Mrs. Kendall Morgan wore a trouseau gown of white, and Mrs. George Hammer looked exceedingly well, in a gown of hand embroidered linen.

Among other becoming costumes were those worn by Mrs. Challen Parker, Mrs. Henry Rosenfeld, Miss Carrie Nicholson, Mrs. Albert Long, Mrs. Edward Engs, Miss Bessie Palmer, Mrs. Henry Lord Chase, Mrs. Percival Walker, Mrs. Wilhelm, Mrs. Robert Newell, Miss Buneman, and Mrs. Frank Watson.

Elaborate refreshments were served, the trays being exceedingly artistic with lovely wild flowers, very beautifully arranged.

Mrs. Montell Taylor is a delightful young hostess, and an exceedingly bright young matron. She has a great many friends, and she is planning to entertain this year at a series of bridge afternoons, which will make her friends very welcome in her charming home.

LADIES' RELIEF ANNOUNCES FETE.

There have seldom been after-lenten seasons so very full of interest, for brides are to be entertained, and there are the Easter weddings, and the various philanthropies announce summer festivals. The Ladies' Relief Association announces its annual entertainment and will give its usual May fete the first Saturday in May. The fete this year is to be given in the grounds of the old Foster place, opposite St. Mary's College. It is now called the Breed & Bancroft block.

and is immensely picturesque. It had been planned to give the fête at Mooswood Park, but as that has been thrown open to the public, no admission can now be charged. Mrs. Houghton, who is much interested in the work of the Association, offered the Foster place, and it promises to afford an exceedingly picturesque environment for a most fascinating May festival. The various committees are already hard at work, and a lovely May holiday for the children is assured.

GOODFELLOW-COREY WEDDING ANNOUNCED.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Lincoln Corey announce the marriage of their daughter Katharine Hyde, to Arthur William Goodfellow, on Monday, the seventeenth of April, at Fresno, California. An enclosed card announces also that Mr. and Mrs. Arthur William Goodfellow will be at home after the first of October in Oakland.

The Coreys are among the most prominent of the representative families of the South, with a most attractive home in Fresno. The wedding took place at the home of the bride, and only the relatives were present, but there was a large assemblage, since there is an unusually large family connection on both sides. Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Goodfellow, who went to Fresno for the wedding of their son, have returned home.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Goodfellow sailed on the Korea, early in the week, for Honolulu, for their wedding trip. Mrs. Goodfellow is planning to entertain for her daughters-in-law, early in the autumn, and it is probable that a large reception will be given in the large East Oakland home of the Goodfellows. Mrs. Goodfellow will probably entertain at the same time for her daughter Edith, who will be one of the attractive young debutantes of the coming season.

Miss Edith Goodfellow is a most charming girl, who has been carefully educated. She is a great friend of Miss Margaret Moore, who will also be one of next winter's debutantes.

MANY OAKLANDERS HAVE VACATION HABIT.

The vacation habit is becoming a settled one with many people, and they are people who sometimes do the hardest work. A vacation of a few days in the country relieves the tension, and one returns to the day's duties with a much clearer vision, and with better measurements.

The Vetches, the Coogans, and Mrs. Harry Thomas and her boys returned recently from an Easter vacation at McCray's. At the latter place there was an Easter dance, and one hears that fifty of the guests were from our city.

IMPORTANT EVENTS ON SOCIETY CALENDAR.

Among the important social dates of the immediate future are those planned for their friends by such well known hostesses as Mrs. Edward Walsh, Mrs. Thomas H. Williams, Miss Muriel Steele, and Mrs. Charles S. Houghton. Mrs. Walsh is to entertain at a large bridge party, and her guests will enjoy a most delightful afternoon at "Malahul," her Linda Vista home, on the afternoon of Wednesday, April 26. Mrs. Walsh will be assisted in receiving her guests by Mrs. John Louis Lohse and Mrs. Maurice Walsh.

MRS. HOUGHTON SENDS OUT CARDS.

Mrs. Charles S. Houghton has sent out cards for a large "at home" on Wednesday, the third of May, from three until six o'clock. The "at home" will be given as a welcome to Mrs. Houghton's daughter, Mrs. Theodore Seymour Hall (Ruth Houghton), who recently returned with her husband to Oakland, after a year's stay in the Islands.

Mr. Hall is to go into business in California, and the Halls will probably make their home in Oakland.

Mrs. Seymour Hall is a much loved young matron, and her friends will be glad of the opportunity of meeting her again and of personally welcoming her back.

The Charles Houghtons have an exceedingly attractive home on Van Buren avenue, one of the most artistic in the lower foothills. The reception for Mrs. Hall will be one of the most important dates of the late season, and will call out a large representation from many of our most prominent families.

MRS. THOMAS WILLIAMS TO BE A HOSTESS.

Mrs. Thomas H. Williams (Beatrice Steele) is to be a luncheon hostess on Wednesday, May 3, and her guest of honor is to be attractive Miss Charlotte Hall, the popular bride-elect whose wedding date is set for the middle of May.

The Steele and Hall families have been friends for many years, and both Mrs. Williams and her sister, Miss Steele, are to entertain for Miss Charlotte Hall.

Mrs. Williams does a great deal, in a most generous fashion, for her young girl friends, and she is one of the most popular and most gracious of the younger matrons across the bay. She will entertain for Miss Hall in her home across the bay, in one of the most beautiful of the homes on Pacific avenue.

Miss Muriel Steele will also entertain for Miss Hall, and there will be sixteen of the girl friends of the charming young hostess to enjoy her hospitality at the Claremont Country Club.

ENJOY HOSPITALITY OF MRS. GEORGE JENSEN.

A number of guests on Monday afternoon enjoyed the hospitality of Mrs. George Jensen, who entertained informally for Mrs. Harold Oliver, one of the interesting brides of the spring. The various members of the Oliver family have established homes of their own, with the exception of the youngest son, Leslie Oliver, who remains at home. Roland Oliver has also remained at home since the departure of Mrs. Roland Oliver, some months ago.

The Edwin Olivers recently came from Grass Valley and have established their home in the residence on Vernon Heights, occupied for so long by the Frederick Stolps.

Mrs. Jensen's "at home" was most informal, and she was assisted in receiving her guests by her sister, Mrs. Madison Ralph Jones. Among the guests were:

Mrs. Oliver Mrs. Culver
Mrs. Everett Mrs. Harry Alderson
Miss Florence Brown Mrs. Kenneth Lowden
Mrs. William Thorntons, Edwin Oliver,
White Mrs. Dan Beliden

The guest list was made up from the younger matrons, and from the young girl friends of the hostess.

MRS. CHARLES BENTLEY AIDS HER FRIENDS.

Mrs. Charles Harvey Bentley has sent out cards for an "at home," and she will receive her friends on Friday, April twenty-eighth, at her home on Pacific avenue in San Francisco.

The Bentleys have a delightful home across the bay on the corner of Presidio and Pacific avenues, and Mrs. Bentley (Florence Hush), has made of it a most successful social center. She is very musical, as we all know, being one of the leading pianists on the coast, and she sings exceedingly well. She is one of the few young matrons who keep up their practice, and she does it in a most systematic way. Mrs. Bentley will be assisted in receiving her guests by her sister, Mrs. William A. Magee, and no doubt there will be many Oakland people at the reception, for the Hushes are so popular with a large circle of friends here.

MR. AND MRS. ROSS NOW IN OWN HOME.

Mr. and Mrs. Archie Ross, whose marriage took place a few weeks ago in Bureka, are now comfortably established in their own artistic home here. Mrs. Ross is an attractive young matron, and she is also very accomplished, playing the violin exceedingly well. There are many relatives to make the bride welcome here, for Mr. Ross is the eldest son of Mrs. Mary Herrick Ross, and is the nephew of Mrs. Mark Requa, Mrs. Josiah Stanford and the Misses Herrick.

Mr. Ross is a successful young business man, whose future career is assured.

SOCIAL SCHEDULE IS OF INTEREST.

And still the cards come in, bearing the chronicle of social dates to come, and the social schedule is as follows:

April 27, wedding of Miss Alice Albright and Mr. Farnum.
April 28, Mrs. George Reinhardt entertains in Berkeley at a large tea in honor of Mrs. Bancroft.
April 28, Mrs. Edward Walsh entertains at bridge at her Linda Vista home.
April 28, Mrs. Charles Harvey Bentley gives a large tea at her home on Pacific avenue.
May 3, Mrs. Charles Houghton entertains at a large reception in honor of Mrs. Seymour Hall.

May 4, Mr. and Mrs. Acker will entertain at an evening of cards at their home on Euclid avenue.

May 6, the Ladies' Relief Association gives a large fête at the Breed and Bancroft place.

May 11, Mrs. William G. Henshaw entertains a hundred guests at bridge at the Claremont Country Club.

And one hears there are other cards to come, so the social ball goes merrily rolling on.

PICTURES IN THE MEDDLER.

Miss Mabel Gregory, whose picture appears in tonight's Meddler is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. K. Gregory of San Francisco, whose engagement was announced this week to Dr.

John Murrieta and whose wedding will take place tonight at the Fairmont hotel.

Both young people are well known in this city, where the bride has been frequently entertained and has many friends who are deeply interested in tonight's wedding.

Miss Clara Smith is the daughter of Mrs. Ella L. Smith of this city and announced her engagement today to Emil Charles Drewes at a card party given at the family home in Claremont.

Mrs. Royal Miller is one of the younger matrons who has been a frequent hostess and has a wide circle of friends here.

Miss Edna Eastman is one of the younger girls who is entertained frequently in the bay cities.

MRS. HERBERT HAMILTON BROWN will give a dinner party tonight at the Claremont Country Club, when she will make Mrs. William Gardner Cooke, the sister of Mrs. Kendall Morgan, the guest of honor.

Mrs. Cooke is a charming Eastern woman who recently returned from a trip to the Hawaiian Islands and has been the house guest of Mrs. Morgan. The decorations will be spring flowers with fruit blossoms.

Covers will be laid for the following: Mr. and Mrs. James Kennedy Moffitt, Mr. and Mrs. Granville Abbott, Mr. and Mrs. Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Kendall Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. George Morgan, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Nichols, Roland Oliver, Mrs. Cooke.

HOSTESS YESTERDAY.

Mrs. B. F. Shaw was hostess yesterday when she entertained half a hundred guests at her residence on Bellevue avenue. Red tulips were used in the decorations and the guests included Mesdames Gilbert Curtiss, Percy Walker, Lawson Adams, Gordon Stolp, Joseph Kelley, De Vere MacLaren, Walter Reed, Ralph Coxhead, R. H. Auerbach, Henry P. Dalton, J. Cal Ewing, H. S. Kergan, J. C. Stratton, George Boveroux, John Maxwell, James Tyson, James Oliver, T. F. Scanlan, L. Connor, E. Allison, Misses E. Breiling, J. Breiling, Lillian Breiling.

JUNIOR ASSEMBLY DANCE.

The next dance of the Junior Assembly of Oakland will be held April 28 at Maple hall, and should be a very enjoyable affair. The younger set are looking eagerly forward to it, and about 250 guests will attend.

RECEPTION.

Nearly 150 friends have been asked by Mrs. George Reinhardt to a reception which she will give on the afternoon of Wednesday, April 26, the affair to be an extensive one. The hostess is making Mrs. Frank Bancroft the motif for the afternoon. The latter leaves shortly for the Atlantic coast where she will join her husband. Her friends here are regretting her contemplated departure.

SUMMER PLANS.

A number of friends in the Piedmont set are choosing idyllic in the Santa Cruz mountains for their summer outing. Among them are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Farr, Mr. and Mrs. Irving Lundborg, Mr. and Mrs. Dan Belden, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Hamilton Brown.

DANCE LAST NIGHT.

Miss Amy Bowles was a hostess last night at a dance at "The Pines" when her guests included a large number of guests from both sides of the bay.

DINNER AND CARDS.

Mr. and Mrs. John Britton who since leaving their Piedmont home have been staying at the St. Francis in San Francisco, entertained the Linda Vista Card club at dinner last night. Hand-wrought pieces of flat silver were given as prizes for the card game which followed the menu.

COTILLION TONIGHT.

The Saturday Evening Cotillion will give a shirtwaist dance this evening in Ebell hall which is to be decorated for the occasion.

Leon Gore and Herbert Breed are in charge of the arrangements. An innovation will be the shirtwaists and the business suits of the dancers, which will take the place of the usual evening dress.

LUNCHEON YESTERDAY.

Mrs. Walter Morgan of Adams Point, gave a pretty appointed luncheon yesterday in honor of Mrs. Leon Campbell.

The table was effectively decorated in shades of red with a centerpiece of carnations. Cards were played during the afternoon. The guests were:

Mrs. George Scott, Mrs. Roosevelt Johnson, Mrs. Arthur Van Pelt, Mrs. A. C. Olds, Mrs. A. F. Cornwall, Mrs. De Graff, Mrs. Frank Stewart, Mrs. John Hunter, Mrs. Charles Taylor, Mrs. George White.

MUSICAL AND RECEPTION.

The Shells Alumnae Seminary Association will give a very interesting musical and reception on Wednesday at 3 o'clock, when the following will contribute to the program:

Mrs. Reuben Ullsh, Mrs. Richard Partington, Miss Marie Paterson, Mrs. Albert C. Brouse, Miss Louise E. Cleveland.

VISITING HERE.

Miss Noville Hall of Cordesia, niece of Mrs. George Wingfield of Reno, Nevada, and Mrs. R. B. Murdock of this city, is visiting Miss Elsa Kraft of Croton avenue.

TEA TODAY.

Mrs. Reginald Wayne Kihntell entertained at her Piedmont home today at a tea, making Mrs. Louis Jules Gilbert, a bride of the season, the complimented guest.

WEDDED THIS MONTH.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Allen, 628 Forty-fourth street, was the scene of one of the prettiest weddings of the Eastertide on Tuesday, April 18, when Miss Glennette Armstrong and James G. King were united in marriage by the Rev. Alexander Allen of St. Paul's Episcopal church. The decorations were an effective arrangement of calls and Easter lilies.

The bride was gownned in a dainty creation of blue and silver and carried a prayer book that had been her great-grandmother's. The ceremony was performed at 5 o'clock and was followed by a prettily appointed supper.

Amid congratulations and good wishes the bridal couple took their departure for the north, going later to the mountains of Trinity county, where the bridegroom has extensive mining interests.

LARGE RECEPTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Edington Dietrich and Miss Albertine Dietrich have issued cards for the evening of April 26, when they will give a large reception at the family home in Berkeley. A group of friends will assist in receiving the guests, who will come from all the bay cities.

ANNOUNCES ENGAGEMENT.

The engagement of Miss Clara Smith, daughter of Mrs. Ella L. Smith to Emil Charles Drewes was announced today at an elaborate card party given by the mother of the bride-elect at her Claremont home. The party was one of the prettiest affairs of the season. About a score of Miss Smith's most intimate friends were entertained. Mrs. Smith was assisted in receiving the guests by her daughter, Miss Clara, and her sister, Mrs. Charles Henry Ward of San Francisco. Drewes is a prominent young business man of San Francisco.

BRIDGE AFTERNOON.

Mrs. George Jessen has sent out cards for an afternoon at bridge at her home in Vernal avenue, April 26. A large number of the matrons of the local set have been included in the affair. Although Mrs. Jessen came to Piedmont to live only a few seasons ago she claims a wide acquaintance on both sides of the bay. Recently she purchased the William Merton Hall home, adjoining the Bonestell residence. Before her marriage she was popular in the southern part of the State, being a daughter of the Voorhies family.

HEART--TRIBUNE'S PAGE FOR WOMEN--HOME

HER NAME IS VERMILLION; HER NATURE IS LIKEWISE

GREENWICH, Conn. — "I wish you'd come after that girl Anne Vermillion," phoned Mrs. E. W. Lee of Maher avenue to the Bedford reformatory, "I don't care how soon you come, either. You'll find her in jail. I couldn't keep her."

So men came from the reformatory and got Anne, after Mrs. Lee, the police and a few others had told how Anne was French and fiery and how, being true to her name, had attempted to paint red the town of Greenwich. But the red paint of Anne was not the New York tenderloin kind. She tried to use real flames and real blood.

Annie gave promise of being a servant when she went to Mrs. Lee from the reformatory on Thursday. But after Mrs. Lee went to church this morning Anne got feverish and decided on a general destruction of things.

She broke a parlor lamp and poured the oil over a rug. Into the rug she poured a shovelful of hot coals. Then she stepped from the house. Mrs. Lee met her at the door. Anne ordered her mistress to step aside or be killed. Mrs. Lee argued, not caring to lose such a promising servant. Annie walked to the kitchen.

Mrs. Lee, a friend, Miss Watson, and George Carmichael, head master of the Brunswick school, extinguished the flames. They found Anne in the kitchen armed with a carving knife and fork. She threatened to kill anyone who approached. Then she slipped out of a rear door. Carmichael followed and pointed her out to Patrolman Flanagan.

Flanagan, who retains his ancestral powers of blarney, persuaded Anne to hand over the knife and fork. Having thus basely disarmed her, he led her to a cell. Then Mrs. Lee hurriedly called the reformatory.

Want Teacher Ousted

CHICAGO. — More than 1000 members of the W. C. T. U. have signed a petition for the removal of Miss Grace Reed, head of the Frances E. Willard High School, named for the lifelong prohibition worker. Miss Reed is the prettiest school principal in Chicago and a suffragette.

Eighteen months ago in an address to the equal suffrage women she said: "A saloonkeeper who is a man of good moral character is as much entitled to respect as anyone else."

"It is perfectly absurd," she said. "The women have evidently a program of persecution."

"What hurt them more than anything else was my assertion that a prohibition victory would be in the nature of a calamity from a business standpoint. It was merely incidental in a speech on woman suffrage, in which I was and am interested."

Women Seek to Be Police

MINNEAPOLIS. — "Holy Suffrage," ejaculated Fred Williams, secretary to Mayor Haynes, after he had finished the examination of an amazing array of militant femininity, which presented itself in response to the mayor's decision to add women detectives to the Minneapolis police department.

One asserted in her qualifications that she had been married three times, that she could swing a patrolman's club as readily as a potato masher or a rolling-pin and that there were few who would dare doubt her ability as a manager of any situation.

Poor, but Leaves Fortune to Charity

NEW YORK. — When Miss Ellen Hagerty, nearly 90 years old, died at her home, No. 85 Columbia street, Brooklyn March 26, no one suspected that she left more than enough to give her a decent burial.

For more years than any one associated with her can remember, she has been trudging daily to a Brooklyn department store, where she worked at trimming hats. Among her co-workers were gray haired women who began work as girls; Miss Ellen was old when they first saw her.

Miss Ellen was a good deal of a recluse but kindly and cheerful always, and she kept her own counsel.

Not until yesterday, when Miss Ellen's will, bequeathing nearly $50,000 to charities, was filed in the Surrogate's office, was it learned that the little hat trimmer had been hoarding her savings.

Under the will St. Peter's Roman Catholic church of Brooklyn gets $12,000, St. Michael's monastery, West Hoboken, $3000, the Roman Catholic bishopric of Louisville, Cheyenne and Natchez $1000 each and the bishopric of Fargo $500.

Bishop McDonnell of Brooklyn gets $1000 for the education of boys for the priesthood and the Marquette League for the erection of a new chapel. The remaining bequests, ranging from $1000 to $500, are to cousins and Brooklyn charitable organizations.

PRETTY CHINESE CENTRAL WON'T SNAP NUMBER!

"Woman, remaining silent, is good." Can you imagine yourself saying that sternly to the chattering young person at the telephone switchboard in your hotel?

Or this: "The tongue four inches long can kill a man six feet tall."

Or this: "The conversation of a female is an inch of hell."

Yet shortcomings in the two new "centrals" in Pekin, China, will earn such Confucian rebukes.

For a week the 2500 subscribers in Pekin have been enjoying the advantages of the $150,000 telephone system installed by the Western Electric Company. But owing to the Chinese estimate of woman it is doubtful if certain phone troubles known to New Yorkers will develop there. For in China a wife may be divorced "if she talks too much."

Of faults due to the inexperience of the operators there may be many, but the operator will explain these lapses

: WALKS 45 FLIGHTS ON TOES :

NEW YORK. — Walking all the way on the tips of her toes, Miss King, a dancer, came down the forty-five flights of stairs in the Metropolitan Life Insurance building without stopping, making the distance in fourteen minutes. It was afterward learned that the dancer is a member of the Lew Fields company playing in "The Hen Pecks" at the Broadway theater.

She was accompanied by her sister, Mrs. Wright, and J. Z. McDermott of No. 31 West Thirty-seventh street. The feat was watched by a number of newspaper men and officers of the building. Miss King wore a light street gown cut short, so that her feet were always visible. Her feet were enclosed in the regulation ballet slippers. It is calculated that she covered 2000 steps without once coming down flat on her feet. In addition to this, on reaching the bottom Miss King made a round of the corridor on her toes. Until the last fifteen flights the toe dancer walked rather slowly, but on these she came down almost on a run. Danvers said that it was one of the most remarkable tests of endurance they had ever seen or heard about. So she gets her picture in the paper.

HER FACE ADORNS CALENDARS

MRS. BETTY CHAPMAN, concededly the best dressed woman of the stage.

NEW YORK. — If you were a society woman of national repute and your reputation as an actress conceded you to be the best dressed woman on the American stage, and your frocks were the envy of the Four Hundred in Gotham, would you get angry if some rude confectioneer placed your pictures on calendars as an advertisement and then hung them in the kitchens of any one who made a ten cent purchase or over? Would you? Such is the predicament of Mrs. Betty Chapman, a pretty New York divorcee, according to the tale told by a local debutante whose maid received one when she bought some sweets at a New York confectioner's not long ago.

The maid, recognizing the smiling portrait as that of one who frequently visited her mistress, told of her discovery. Immediately there was a hurried telephone call, whereupon Mrs. "Betty" is said to have called on the confectioner. The confectioner must withdraw the calendars immediately was the mandate of the thoroughly aroused society leader, and this the confectioner agreed to do.

WHITE SLAVER WEDS HIS VICTIM

CHICAGO. — The county jail marriage of "George Y. Hughes," a swarthy-skinned Korean, accused of being a "white slave," to Ruth Carter, a farmer's daughter and his reputed latest victim, led to a demand being made by government officials on Sheriff Michael Zimmer for an explanation and the calling of a number of county jail attaches on the "carpet."

The Korean, who claims to be a scion of a noble Korean family, was arrested a week ago, and placed behind the bars of the wire humbly. No operator will let her voice take a joy ride over the wires when she thinks her identity is hidden safely.

"Honorable Lord, your unworthy worm has called the exalted number repeatedly, but that excellent one has not deigned to answer the ring of the humble slave," will be the explanation in cases that in New York would bring the snappish "that party don't answer."

"Most Gracious Excellency, the gods have conferred many gifts upon man, but it is not yet given to four men to talk over the single wire. Honorably excuse and deign to ring off." is a gracious and deferential form of "P-I-lease keep off the wire."

In Pekin you will not hear a harsh voice demand, "Well," in answer to your ring. Rather will it be: "How may the insignificant one serve the enlightened master?"

Now that we have sent the telephone to China perhaps she will send us a few operators.

SHOCK BLINDS WASHINGTON WOMAN

EVERETT, (Wash.) — A strange sequel to the killing of Virgil Bell last Sunday, when Mrs. Sarah Watson fired a rifle bullet accidentally through the young man's breast, is that Mrs. Watson has been stricken with blindness that may be permanent.

Only a short time after the young married woman was taken to the home of her uncle, J. S. Moss, No. 4023 Smith avenue, Sunday afternoon, she complained of distress in her eyes, but she was so nervous at the time that little attention was paid to her complaints.

SLAP ON THE WRIST STORY MAY COST ACTRESS $25,000

NEW YORK. — A slap on the wrist may reach its high water valuation in a suit for $25,000 which Herbert Standing, the actor has brought against Ruth Shepley, an actress. In his complaint he alleges that Miss Shepley complained to William A. Brady, manager, that Standing had struck her on the wrist and used insulting language to her, which resulted in his discharge, and also that she gave a story to the same effect to the newspapers.

M. J. Horan of No. 257 Broadway is attorney for Standing and Nathan Vidaver of No. 116 Nassau street, who is attorney for Mr. Brady, has filed a general denial for Miss Shepley.

It was about Christmas time that Henry E. Dixey & Company of which Brady was manager, played a week's engagement at the Lyric Theater, Cincinnati, and during a rehearsal the argument between the youthful Miss Shepley and Mr. Standing occurred. He is over sixty years old and the father of Guy and Percy Standing. The play was "The Naked Truth," which has since been placed in storage.

Miss Shepley said to a reporter that Mr. Standing had always impressed her as a perfect gentleman, but that owing to a discussion over Mr. Dixey's merits as an actor a strained relationship had grown up between them, with the result that in an argument the cause of which she could not recall, Mr. Standing struck her a not-very-hard blow on the wrist. She immediately wired Mr. Brady and Standing was promptly discharged.

Standing could not be found, but Vidaver stated that the actor had insisted that Mr. Brady settle for the remainder of a contract which called for twenty-five weeks' guaranteed service, and that a board of arbitrators had been agreed on to settle the matter. These gentlemen are George Broadhurst, Daniel V. Arthur and J. Hartley Manners. Messrs. Broadhurst and Manners are authors and Mr. Arthur is a manager.

Horan's assistant said that Miss Shepley had married a wealthy man recently. Miss Shepley admitted that she had been the wife of F. J. Rooks of Providence, R. I., but refused to discuss the condition of his bank account. She is now rehearsing as leading woman with Douglas Fairbanks, in the new play, "A Gentleman of Leisure."

Nine Years Old And They Elope

PHILADELPHIA. — Declaring that she had induced nine-year-old Arthur Hurlo to run away from home and school with her last Thursday so that they could be married, Lillian Willmer, who is but nine years of age herself, in a firm voice told Magistrate Yates at the House of Detention of their adventures, while the boy hid his face and wept.

The children were arrested in the street late last night by a truant officer, who has been searching for them since Thursday. The families were also searching.

Lillian told Magistrate Yates that they had slept behind a board fence near their homes each night and had got their food by begging at bakeries.

Arthur, deeply penitent, was discharged, but Lillian was held under $300 bail on the charge of being an incorrigible runaway.

Beauty Near Death

NEW YORK, April 22. — Miss Betty Latimer, who has international reputation as a society leader, and who was stricken with pneumonia a week ago, is reported by one of the nurses who is attending her at the Plaza Hotel to be near death. For several days her physicians have been administering oxygen and this treatment alone has kept Miss Latimer alive.

Her mother, Mrs. E. S. Latimer, who has resided as a beauty in the American colonies in Rome, Vienna and Paris, and is as popular in London as in New York and Newport.

Will Be American

NEW YORK, April 22. — Tetraxini will sing in grand opera at the Metropolitan Opera House during the season of 1911-12. She will also appear in grand opera in Chicago, Boston and Philadelphia during the same season.

Tetraxini for this engagement will receive the highest salary ever paid to a female singer. She also expects to become an American. This announcement was made officially by Attorney Spelman, personal counsel for Tetraxini. He said that contracts were already signed with the Chicago Grand Opera Company to cover the engagement for the Chicago-Philadelphia season, and with the Metropolitan Opera Company of Boston for her appearance there.

Lulu Glaser Sues

NEW YORK, April 22. — Action for divorce has been begun by Lulu Glaser, the actress, against Ralph Herz, who is starring in "Dr. de Luxe" at the Knickerbocker. Through her attorney, Herman L. Roth, Miss Glaser served a summons and complaint on Herz in the offices of Joseph Galtes, the theatrical manager.

Gives Wealth Away to Satisfy Fiance

WASHINGTON. — "Romance of the old fashioned fairy story type," commented Washington society when it was announced that Mrs. Albert Clifford Barney, artist and society widow of 60 summers, had deeded her extensive Washington properties to her daughters to calm the fears of her 27-year-old fiance, Christian Hemmick, who dreamed to be thought mercenary.

Mrs. Barney deeded to her daughters, Natalie and Alice, her beautiful "studio" home and all the other Washington real estate she owned. The property goes to the daughters on Mrs. Barney's death. Hemmick, who is well-to-do himself, objected to placing himself in the position of marrying the wealthy widow for her vast possessions.

The beautiful statue, depicting the nude, reclining Ariadne, for which Miss Natalie Barney was reported to have posed, and which caused a furore last autumn, goes with the studio home given to the daughters.

$40 Lost at Bridge Clamps on the Lid

MONTCLAIR, N. J. — Because a society girl of Montclair lost $40 in a bridge game recently, Recorder Henry L. Yost announces that the almighty State gambling laws of 1898 will be enforced to the letter here. They prohibit poker, bridge, shuffling dice for drinks, raffles and all other games of chance.

"Even if a cent is bet on 'old maid,' it's gambling," Yost says, "and I will order arrests."

SHOCK BLINDS WASHINGTON WOMAN

Later it developed that Mrs. Watson's vision had been so seriously affected by the shock of the tragedy that her sight was deserting her. She is unable to distinguish day from night and has to keep her eyes bandaged tightly.

Physicians attribute the impaired vision to the shock of seeing Virgil Bell fall at her feet and hearing his shriek when the bullet pierced his body.

Every effort is being made to quiet Mrs. Watson's nerves, which have been at high-tension since Sunday afternoon.

Which Is Why Mrs. Kathryn Voorhies Henry Will Not Wed Just Yet.

AN FRANCISCO, April 22. — Cupid lost out yesterday after a game little struggle in the affairs of Mrs. Kathryn Voorhies Henry. Arrayed against him were the fascinations of the coronation festivities in London and the pleading of the charming Princess Kawanakakoa.

He depended for victory upon the ardor of the young man who has been Henry's devoted cavalier all winter and who voiced his protest against her departure several weeks ago, when the Princess cabled the invitation to accompany her to London, whither she was to be present at the coronation of King George.

Of course, Mrs. Henry wanted to go to Europe as the guest of the Princess. Who wouldn't?

Only a very much absorbed young man could be unreasonable enough to expect her to give up the trip.

The question was argued and discussed while the Princess waited impatiently in Honolulu for the expected acceptance of her invitation.

A week passed, and still Mrs. Henry and the young man were arguing for and against her going.

The Princess grew, tired of waiting and cabled again.

An answer being imperative, Mrs. Henry replied: "Will decide on your arrival in San Francisco."

The young man remained obdurate in his demand that the charming leader of the old Southern set forego the pleasures awaiting her on the other side of the Atlantic and limit herself to the honeymoon trip within the confines of the state, which was all that his business interests would permit just now.

Individually Mrs. Henry suggested that last night she had no means as yet as the coronations of kings, and that a honeymoon trip to the orange-scented groves of Pasadena paled into insignificance beside the other journey leading to the present fashionable fete which the social elect of the entire world are gathering.

"The man will wait—the coronation won't," was the final place of philosophical advice which reached the London trip, and yesterday was spent by Mrs. Henry in continuous telegraphing to secure reservations on the steamer upon which the Princess is sailing the last of the month.

DISGUISED GIRL HELD CAPTIVE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — Declaring that she will kill herself if her identity is made public, but admitting that she is the daughter of a prominent family living near Old City, Pa., a handsome young woman was released in the custody of her brother here, while F. M. Girard, who claims to be a graduate of McFadden's Physical Culture Institute, of Fowler & Wells' Phenological Institute, and Dr. Benedict Lust's Naturopathic Institute, was locked up.

The couple were found living in a ten roomed house near the boardwalk, after the girl's brother received a letter from her, written on the side of a sugar paper bag, asking him to come to her aid.

The girl, who says her hobbies are astronomy and physical culture, told the police she got into correspondence with Girard, relative to courses in these sciences. She met him by appointment in this city and, she declares, was forcibly detained in a tent for weeks. She finally escaped and stopped off at the Outcalt Physical Culture School near Newark to obtain some literature. Girard traced her, she says, compelled her to cut off her hair, don boy's clothing and brought her back to this city. The letter to her brother she managed to give to a boy who was passing, she said.

The girl told the police she endeavored in every way to escape, but that Girard always kept her under watch.

According to the police, Girard is known as D. P. Nelson, E. H. Nelson, David Henry and Henry Nelson.

"MULIEBRITY"—PROF. PECK DEFINES IT

BOSTON. — Harry Thurston Peck, former professor of Latin in Columbia University, and his wife, Elizabeth Peck, were the principal witnesses in the United States Supreme Court before Judge Dodge and a jury in the trial of Professor Peck's action against the Boston Post, in which he claims $100,000 damages for libel.

On cross-examination Professor Peck said:

"The article in the Post held me up as being addicted to muliebrity."

"What is muliebrity?" demanded Lawyer Pugh of the Post's counsel.

"It means excessive and unnatural fondness for women," Professor Peck explained.

"Is it not a fact that the first Mrs. Peck characterized you as an ink maniac?"

"I don't know anything about it except what I have heard through a third party."

Professor Peck told of the unpleasant attention directed toward him and his

TELLS SENSATION OF BATTLE Girl Who Fought Gives Views

EL PASO. — Patricia Vasquez, the only woman who has yet fought in the trenches with the Insurrectos does not appear to think her feat was unusual. This girl of sixteen does not even care to talk about it. It may be modesty, it may be fear of the Federals. Born of a race of mountain people who have fought for generations, first to keep off the Indians, then against the Federal government when it imposed taxes that were considered burdensome, daughter of a mother who fought the redskins, granddaughter of a woman who lost an arm battling with the red men, she appears to think fighting with her father in the trenches the proper thing.

Miss Vasquez is shy and a faint tinge of pink makes itself visible beneath the tawny skin when she is asked to recount her experiences in the fight. She says she went into the fight at Casas Grandes because her father went. She was very sick when first she saw blood, just like another woman would be, and she says war is not anything like the picture books show it.

"It was terrible," she said, with a shudder. "Poor men had to die fighting for what they thought was right—but the Federals didn't kill in anger; they killed because they didn't know. They think the Insurrectos are fighting just to kill the soldiers so there will be more corn and more money left for the living."

"I was not afraid," she said, when asked how she felt when she entered the fight. "The men got behind things and in the ditches, but I got cramped when I got into the ditches and I could not stay. I know the soldiers wouldn't kill a woman anyhow; the Federals are all good men; they are just mistaken, they do not know—and when I could help them I did it, but I would not help those who were still shooting."

NO BREAKFAST AND SLEEPY.

"I was not a bit afraid, but I got very sick. I wanted to lie down; it was awful the very first time a man was shot close to me. I remembered that I had not had my breakfast; that was what made me sick, I think. I forgot where father was after we had been fighting a long time. I was helping some poor men who had fallen right where the bullets were falling. I wanted to get them out of the way. It seemed like I could hear my father calling me from away off; my ears were ringing a bit and it was just like a dream. Then the Federals were all around us and I looked and my father was not anywhere. Soon the soldiers took up to the fall. They gave me plenty to eat and put me in a cell by myself, and when they were ready to take the other prisoners to Chihuahua the General asked me if I would come to El Paso if he would let me go. He said I must not fight again.

"After we started fighting—it was so early in the morning that I was very sleepy—it seemed just like a dream. I have seen pictures of fighting, where men had their heads tied up and their legs shot off and cannon balls were bursting in the air, but ours all seemed different; it was so cruel. Bullets that came from we did not know where would strike some poor man in the head or stomach and he would fall. He couldn't see who shot him."

DEADLY WORK OF CANNON.

"We could hear a cannon away off and a big solid piece of iron would strike one of the houses where our men were concealed and tear it to pieces. We didn't see any of the soldiers much until the very last. I had been shooting a long time, but my pistols didn't do much good, as I couldn't see anybody to shoot at until a long time after the fighting had started, just when our men began to fall back.

"After we had fought awhile I forgot all about fighting and went to work to help the wounded men, for they did so much need to have help. I gave them water and tore off some of my skirts, but if I had torn up my clothes to bandage all their wounds I would not have had anything left."

DISGUISED GIRL HELD CAPTIVE

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. — Declaring that she will kill herself if her identity is made public, but admitting that she is the daughter of a prominent family living near Old City, Pa., a handsome young woman was released in the custody of her brother here, while F. M. Girard, who claims to be a graduate of McFadden's Physical Culture Institute, of Fowler & Wells' Phenological Institute, and Dr. Benedict Lust's Naturopathic Institute, was locked up.

The couple were found living in a ten roomed house near the boardwalk, after the girl's brother received a letter from her, written on the side of a sugar paper bag, asking him to come to her aid.

The girl, who says her hobbies are astronomy and physical culture, told the police she got into correspondence with Girard, relative to courses in these sciences. She met him by appointment in this city and, she declares, was forcibly detained in a tent for weeks. She finally escaped and stopped off at the Outcalt Physical Culture School near Newark to obtain some literature. Girard traced her, she says, compelled her to cut off her hair, don boy's clothing and brought her back to this city. The letter to her brother she managed to give to a boy who was passing, she said.

The girl told the police she endeavored in every way to escape, but that Girard always kept her under watch.

According to the police, Girard is known as D. P. Nelson, E. H. Nelson, David Henry and Henry Nelson.

Which Is Why Mrs. Kathryn Voorhies Henry Will Not Wed Just Yet.

AN FRANCISCO, April 22. — Cupid lost out yesterday after a game little struggle in the affairs of Mrs. Kathryn Voorhies Henry. Arrayed against him were the fascinations of the coronation festivities in London and the pleading of the charming Princess Kawanakakoa.

He depended for victory upon the ardor of the young man who has been Henry's devoted cavalier all winter and who voiced his protest against her departure several weeks ago, when the Princess cabled the invitation to accompany her to London, whither she was to be present at the coronation of King George.

Of course, Mrs. Henry wanted to go to Europe as the guest of the Princess. Who wouldn't?

Only a very much absorbed young man could be unreasonable enough to expect her to give up the trip.

The question was argued and discussed while the Princess waited impatiently in Honolulu for the expected acceptance of her invitation.

A week passed, and still Mrs. Henry and the young man were arguing for and against her going.

The Princess grew, tired of waiting and cabled again.

An answer being imperative, Mrs. Henry replied: "Will decide on your arrival in San Francisco."

The young man remained obdurate in his demand that the charming leader of the old Southern set forego the pleasures awaiting her on the other side of the Atlantic and limit herself to the honeymoon trip within the confines of the state, which was all that his business interests would permit just now.

Individually Mrs. Henry suggested that last night she had no means as yet as the coronations of kings, and that a honeymoon trip to the orange-scented groves of Pasadena paled into insignificance beside the other journey leading to the present fashionable fete which the social elect of the entire world are gathering.

"The man will wait—the coronation won't," was the final place of philosophical advice which reached the London trip, and yesterday was spent by Mrs. Henry in continuous telegraphing to secure reservations on the steamer upon which the Princess is sailing the last of the month.

WILSON SCORES CHARGE THAT GRAFTERS ELECTED HIM

BREAKS

Berkeley Election Is Branded
'Triumph of Soreheads and Criminals'

Socialist Mayor Wrathfully Denounces President of City Club

BERKELEY, April 22.—The municipal campaign preceding today's election ended with the sensational charge by J. B. Galloway, president of the City Club of Berkeley—an organization friendly toward the Good Government Club and the present administration—that wicked forces elected J. Stitt Wilson mayor.

The attack was made through the California Outlook yesterday, and last night Wilson made a heated reply at the High School auditorium. He announced today that he would make a further answer tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock, at the Central theatre in San Francisco, where he has been delivering a series of addresses.

Galloway, in an article in the Outlook, said: "It was not a Socialist victory, but a triumph of grafters, soreheads and criminals."

Indirectly mentioning Wilson, he wrote further: "What will he have on his head? The wrath of his deluded followers."

WILSON WRATHFUL.

At the closing Socialist rally last night, Wilson said: "We have had good sailing during this campaign, with but one or two small gales to contend with. We are now nearing the harbor and tomorrow we shall sail in and cast anchor. I want you to answer tomorrow by your vote the contemptible article which appears in the California Outlook as you answered the Good Government Advocate on the primary election April Fool's day. The statement that we have received should be returned to those who have administered it. The Monday morning after I was elected a San Francisco paper made an attack on me that was not only an insult to me but to the citizens of Berkeley. I resent that for myself and doubly for the voters of the city. I have lived in Berkeley ten years, and have seen no rift-raff, yet this article says that I was elected by the rift-raff. If that is so, that element must prevail here, for I carried six out of the eight districts in the city."

DENIES WICKED FORCES.

J. B. Galloway, president of the City club of Berkeley, the club which holds the city under its watching wings so airily; the City club, a bosom friend of the Good Government club, whose three found their way into the Good Government Advocate, through the medium of the California Outlook, tells you and the world that wicked forces united in electing me mayor of Berkeley.

"I will answer this attack and I can answer it around the world, where my name is known. Since I was elected I have been approached by men who are not Socialists, and who did not vote for me, who offered their assistance, and men who are not Socialists but who did vote for me, who will sustain me. Are all of these people grafters?" "I want Mr. Galloway and the California Outlook to cut their words. Let me read you: 'It was not a Socialist victory, but a triumph of grafters, soreheads and criminals.' My name is not mentioned. I was not aware that there were any criminals in Berkeley, but if there are, they are the men that swallow such stuff as that is printed."

"Thank God these people won't elect me to office. Christ revealed himself to the thief on the cross, but not to the coward."

"Just a little more of the article. Here it says: 'What will he have on his head? The wrath of his deluded followers.' I have met more men in this city during the six weeks of my campaign than any other candidate for office in the history of Berkeley. I have never been approached by a man who uttered one syllable or hint for personal favors since I was elected."

CONGRESS RESTS
AFTER BUSY DAY

Farmers' Free List Bill Will Be Next in Order in the House.

WASHINGTON, April 22.—Both branches of congress rested today. The next business in the house is expected to be the "farmers' free list" bill. This has been brought in to offset some of the dissatisfaction farmers feel because of Canadian reciprocity putting on them, as they believe, most of the burdens of the expected free trade relations with Canada.

When the Canadian bill reaches the senate on Monday it will be plunged into an unorganized body. The committee vacancies have not been filled because a split between the regular and insurgent factions over the refusal of the majority to accept the insurgents as a distinct or independent committee.

It probably will be two or three weeks before the Canadian reciprocity bill emerges from the finance committee.

GEORGE E. DE GOLIA JR., SUES
TO BREAK MARRIAGE TIES

MRS. GEORGE DE GOLIA JR., who has been sued for divorce.

George E. de Golia, Jr., son of a well-known Oakland attorney, instituted suit for divorce late yesterday from Edith de Golia, wilful desertion being alleged in the complaint. Incompatibility of temper is assigned as the reason for Mrs. de Golia leaving her husband and returning to her parents' home.

The suit comes as the culmination of an elopement that started university circles, where the couple were popular.

Young de Golia and Miss Edith Coffin, both members of families active in the social world, slipped away from the college and were married. They kept the nuptial secret for a year. Then de Golia broke the news to his father and his wife told her parents.

The couple left almost immediately afterwards for Oregon City, where de Golia took up a position as superintendent of a paper mill.

ALUMNAE MEET SAVE WOMAN
AT MILLS FROM DEATH
COLLEGE IN FIRE

Two Hundred Members of the Collegiate Association Sit Down to Luncheon.

Two hundred members of the Association of College Alumnae sat down to luncheon today in the large dining hall of Mills college, guests of Mrs. Susan Mills and Dr. Luelia Clay Carson, president of the college. Previous to the luncheon, Mrs. Lorenzo Dow Inskeep, president of the Collegiate Alumnae called a business meeting of the order. In Lissner hall where delegates were elected to attend the state federation convocate at Long Beach May 10 to 16. Miss Cornelia McKinnis, University of California; Miss Lucy Sprague of Redcliffe, and Miss Jessie Berry of Stanford were appointed a nominating committee and the proceedings went ahead without a hitch.

At the college the faculty acted as a reception committee headed by Dr. Carson and Mrs. Mills. About 160 members of the collegiat alumnae were seated. The long tables were decorated with large California poppies and the rooms, both reception and dining hall, were ornamented with yellow roses and the college colors, white and gold.

FRESHMEN SERVE.

The girls of the freshmen class assisted in serving while the seniors and juniors shared the tables with the alumnae. The freshmen girls looked particularly attractive in their immaculate white dresses.

Those seated at the main table with Mrs. Mills and President Carson were: Mrs. Lorenzo Dow Inskeep, Miss E. B. Ego, president of the Mills alumnae; Miss Stebbins, associate dean of women, University of California; Mrs. F. M. Smith, Miss Ethel Moore, Miss Josephine Feustel, president of the Mills club; Miss Helen Peckham, Mrs. May Cheney, U. C.; Dr. Adelaide Brown, Mrs. W. S. Gould, Mrs. Fred S. Athearn, Mrs. Frederick Turner, Mrs. L. D. Harter, Miss Winifred Bangs, Mrs. E. S. Galloway, Mrs. Dr. George Adams, Miss Emma Noonan, Mrs. Frederick Burke, Miss Jane Jay Dodge, Miss Helen A. Brooks.

Mrs. Mills welcomed the guests. Her short talk was followed by an informal address by President Carson and Mrs. Inskeep replied for the collegiat alumnae. By 2 o'clock the guests were augmented by the arrival of 200 club women who joined the alumnae in witnessing the operetta "Trial by Jury," which was given in the gym at 2:50 o'clock by the sophomore class.

After the play the 4000 guests were shown about the grounds by the executive heads of the college, assisted by college students.

Mrs. Martin Laviere, Rescued
From Flames, Tries to Re-enter House.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—Rescued in the nick of time from a bed which was about to burn beneath her, Mrs. Martin Laviere, 58, of 2929 Nineteenth street, owes her life to the heroism of Battalion Chief Murray, Sergeant of Police Coulter and Policeman Moran of the Ingleside station.

After she had been revived in the open air the woman attempted to enter the burning structure in an effort to save a piano and was with difficulty restrained by the police. The fire, which neighbors believe to have been of incendiary origin, destroyed three buildings and damaged a fourth, causing a loss of approximately $25,000.

The blaze originated at 2:45 a. m. in an unoccupied structure at 59. Twenty-ninth street, owned by a man named Hoffman. Two alarms were sent out, but the flames spread rapidly to the adjoining house occupied by Martin Laviere and family. When the smoke and fire was pouring from the home Murray, Coulter and Moran rushed in and carried Mrs. Laviere out. Shooting in another direction the flames caught the partially constructed house of Policeman A. Miller at 586 Twenty-ninth street, burning up all of the lumber stored about. The residence of Mrs. Dolan, at 578, next caught fire, but was saved from destruction.

Police headquarters was communicated with and Detectives Bailey and Behan sent out. They learned that some litigation has been going on in connection with the property where the blaze started and that a watchman has been on duty up to last night. Several suspicious characters were seen about the place during the evening and a pedestrian observed some one moving about inside but could not tell whether it was a man or woman. The officers also learned that kindling wood and other combustibles had been several times banked about the structure. Detectives are diligently working on the incendiary theory.

THIEVES MAKE BIG HAUL.

CHICAGO, April 22.—A trunk filled with gold watches, valued at $20,000, consigned to a manufacturer here from a Cincinnati house, was stolen from an express wagon in the downtown streets. An hour later the wagon was found several blocks away, and later the trunk was found nearly six miles away. It had been broken open and rifled.

W. F. KELLY'S
SALARY CUT?

Income of Retiring Official Said to Have Been Reduced to $12,000.

The Resignation of Key Route
General Manager Is Cause of Surprise.

The successor to W. F. Kelly, as general manager of the Key Route, otherwise known as the San Francisco, Oakland & San Jose railroad, has not been appointed and there is no certainty as to when the vacancy will be filled. The statement is made that Manager Kelly's salary was recently reduced from $16,000 to $12,000 a year and that he did not like the cut. However, this is not given as a reason for his resignation. Neither is M. Smith, who is the inspiration of the Oakland Traction and Key Route systems, nor W. R. Alberger, who is vice-president of the controlling company, will speak on the subject of Kelly's successor, and E. A. Heron, the president of the corporation, to whom the others refer all inquiries, is out of the city. Kelly remains at his post for the time being.

CAUSES GREAT SURPRISE.

The news of his resignation, which was published in THE TRIBUNE last night, caused considerable surprise in all parts of the city. This morning a number of friends called on Kelly at his office on San Pablo avenue for the purpose of expressing their surprise at his retirement and the hope that he would continue to make Oakland his home.

The publication of the letter of resignation in THE TRIBUNE was the first intimation that the employees of the Traction Company had of the fact that they were about to lose their official head. Many of them were puzzled to determine what had brought about the sudden change. Some were surprised, however, who had given expression to the fear that some change would probably be made when the announcement of the great merger, in which the Traction Company forms an important part, had taken place.

KELLY WELL LIKED.

This morning the platform and other employees of the company indulged in speculation as to Kelly's successor. The men are practically unanimous in regretting the retirement of Kelly. It is not improbable that at the next meeting of the carmen's union the organization will take steps to show the appreciation of which the members held their former chief.

F. M. SMITH IS SILENT.

This morning F. M. Smith, in answer to the query as to whether the resignation of Kelly had been decided by him or whether or not it had been decided by who was to be Kelly's successor, said that THE TRIBUNE had published the resignation and that there was nothing more to be said on the subject. Vice-president Alberger was told that there was a rumor in circulation to the effect that soon after the merger referred to, an expert had come from the East and had made an examination of all the local lines of railway included in that consolidation and the supposition was that that expert had made his examination with a view to familiarizing himself with the system, as also to assuming the position which Kelly's resignation made vacant.

The official replied that if any expert or other person had made any such examination, he had made it at his own suggestion and that the Oakland Traction Company was concerned. J. W. Smart, president of the Carman's Union of this city, speaking on the resignation of General Manager Kelly, said: "It is with a sincere feeling of regret that I have heard of the resignation of W. F. Kelly from the position of general manager of the Oakland Traction Company and the Key Route. In all the dealings with him for the past five years, while I have been head of the Carman's Union, I found him a broad-minded, liberal gentleman, ready at any time to investigate things under his jurisdiction, and with a view to familiarizing himself with the system, as also to assuming the position which Kelly's resignation made vacant. The official replied that if any expert or other person had made any such examination, he had made it at his own suggestion and that the Oakland Traction Company was concerned."

Injuries When He
Plunges to Street.

BERKELEY, April 22.—Herbert H. Allerbrock, an Oakland carpenter living at 1213 Wickham street lost his foothold while at work on the roof of a building here this morning, fell to the ground, a distance of 25 feet. He sustained a possible fracture of the skull, a broken nose, laceration on the face and contusions about the body. He was taken to the Roosevelt hospital where physicians declared that his condition was serious. The accident happened on a building in course of construction at 2614 Dwight way, opposite the Christian Science church.

Improvers Elect New Officers at Last Night's Meeting.

The Piedmont Improvement club of Oakland held its annual election of officers last night, the meeting taking place in the club's headquarters on Piedmont avenue. Several hundred were in attendance at the meeting, which was followed by a musical program and elaborate refreshments served by the wives of the club's retiring officers, Mrs. C. E. Fletcher, Mrs. T. F. Isly and Mrs. J. W. Bartlett.

The officers chosen for the coming year were J. W. Hamilton, president; F. M. Reed, vice-president; P. S. Barber, secretary, and R. O. Reed, treasurer. Among those who took part in the musical program following the election were E. M. H. Cockrell, who gave a "booster" song entitled "Oakland"; James Connelly, who gave a cornet solo, and the Piedmont school orchestra and chorus of the school's graduating class, who rendered selections.

S. P. TO SHORTEN
WOMEN'S HOURS

Officials Discover That They Have 400 Employed in the State.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—The chief officials of the Southern Pacific Company here have just had completed a thorough canvass of all the road's passenger, freight, ticket and telegraph offices in California and find there are about 400 women employees whose hours of work will have to be curtailed in order that compliance may be made with the new law adopted by the last legislature limiting the hours of labor of women in any employment in this state to eight hours within each twenty-four and to forty-eight hours in each week.

Some of the head officials are surprised that the number is so large. Under orders from the law department of the road, instructions are to be sent to the head of every department and office in California to see that the law is strictly obeyed when it becomes effective within the next few weeks. The officials say positively that none of these women will be discharged. It would be a hardship to do such a thing, they assert, and they have no intention of causing dismissals. To make up for the curtailment of hours in this respect, extra help will be employed. How much, they are not prepared to say. All will depend upon conditions in each department where women will have to have shortened hours.

The hundreds of women in the general offices in the Flood building in this city will not be affected by the new law measure, except in a few cases.

BEAUTY DENIES
SHE WAS SLAYER

Maria Stenardo Called to the Stand in Camorrist Trial at Viterbo.

Butcher Disputes Law With the Judge; Merchant Advertises Wares.

VITERBO, Italy, April 22.—There is not a dull moment in the trial of the Camorristi. The auditors never know what to expect and they crowd every available place in the court of the Assizes daily, assured of some sort of entertainment.

Today Vincenzo Avolio, the butcher who disputed the law with the judge; Antonio Perucco, the seller of tortoise shells, frankly expressing the hope that he would get some free advertising out of his misfortunes, and Maria Stenardo, "the beauty of Naples," who chose imprisonment rather than betray the man she loved, were the principal actors in this strange mixture of comedy and pathos.

PRESENT AT MEETING.

The two men are charged with having been present at the meeting of Camorrist leaders at the Alda tavern in Bagnoli, May 26, 1906, when Genaro Cuocolo was condemned to die. When Avolio doffed the apron of his meat shop for other attire, he chose the best in texture and cut, and when called for interrogation today, he fairly dazzled the spectators with his fashionable array. He is a handsome man, but none was prepared for the oratorical exhibition he made. He spoke like a scholar.

Avolio made the usual qualified denial of guilt, but went further, and at the proper moment drew from his pocket a small copy of the Italian criminal code, and from it read passage after passage in support of his claim that there was no excuse in law for his detention as a suspect in the Cuocolo case.

HAD MORE TO TELL.

President Bianchi listened attentively for some time, appearing much interested and amused, and when he thought the court and jury had been sufficiently instructed in the law, interrupted:

"But, Avolio, you usurp my profession. Unabashed, the prisoner responded: 'I might say much more, but I do not wish to steal the thunder of my lawyer.'"

Antonio Perucco, smiling graciously, was next called for examination. He assured the court and jury that he was as innocent as a babe. He had not been at Bagnoli at the time the sentence of death was passed upon the Cuocolos. Then, in a whimsical vein, he concluded:

ADVERTISES WARES.

"I am not a murderer, or the companion of assassins. I am a business man and trade in tortoise shells. I send my goods to the United States, particularly Chicago, and I do hope in the midst of my misfortunes that this is a good advertisement for my wares."

There was special interest in the examination which followed of Maria Stenardo, who is the only woman among the prisoners. She is the common law wife of Nicola Morra, otherwise known as "Red Sandy," and one of the alleged principals in the murder. Her career has been a romantic one. Now 30 years of age, she retains much of the beauty that attracted numerous suitors in her youth. Of humble birth, she was given in marriage at an early age to a dock laborer and with him set up a lodging house, which attracted the attention of the police.

POWER IN CAMORRA.

Maria visited the local delegate and thereafter the Palazzo Amendola was not disturbed. Soon afterward Maria met Nicola Morra and the state alleges became a power in the Camorra.

All these allegations she denied today, saying: "I was arrested only because I was the friend and companion of Morra, and refused to comply with the wishes of the Carabinieri that I denounce the man that I love and whom I know to be innocent."

AMERICANS TIE
IN CHESS MATCH

Fox and Black Win Games
After Half an Hour's Brisk Play.

NEW YORK, April 22.—Play in the international cable chess match between America and Great Britain was continued today at Brooklyn Chess club, and at the Hotel Cecil, London.

The American players, with one game already lost, hoped for a tie at least. This would prevent the loss of the late Sir George Newnes' $1000 trophy on which the British players have two "legs" and which would become their property should they win the match today.

Within an hour and a half after the resumption of play both Fox and Black had won their games for America, the former after 25 and the latter after 38 moves. Barry, for America, lost his game with Wahlbut after 38 moves. This made the score stand, America 2½, Great Britain 2½.

TRUCE DECLARED IN SENATORIAL BATTLE

WASHINGTON, April 22.—A truce was arranged today in the fight between the progressive and regular Republican senators for representation on the Senate committees. It was agreed that nothing further should be done until Tuesday, when Senator Callaghan will submit a tentative list of appointments. Efforts will be made to adjust matters so, to meet the wishes of the progressives without recognizing them as an organization.

NOTICE OF HEARING OF PETITION FOR RAILROAD

FRANCHISE.

Notice of hearing of petition for property owners and application for petition of Oakland and Bay Shore Railway Company, a railroad corporation, to the County of Alameda, of the time and place for hearing of the same by said court.

Public notice is hereby given that the
OAKLAND and BAY SHORE RAILWAY COMPANY, a railroad corporation, has filed with the County Clerk of the County of the City of Oakland to grant to said corporation, its successors and assigns the right to use and occupy the same, as it lies within the power of the City of Oakland to grant the same, for a period of fifty years, to construct, lay out and maintain a railroad, with a standard gauge, with all necessary switches, siding side-tracks, connections, poles, wires and other necessary appurtenances, and to the operation thereof, and to pass with railroads to be operated by electricity or steam, or both, and to operate Operation as may be authorized by law, except steam locomotives, over, along and across the terminal ground, yards, stations, depots and property of the City of Oakland and Bay Shore Railway Company, over, along and upon the following described line, to-wit: Beginning at the County of Alameda, State of California said route following a center line, set out on line being described as follows, to-wit:

Commencing at a point on Shafter av-tieth street; thence easterly along to center line of Shafter avenue and Forty-first street, Forty-second street,

Forty-third street, Forty-fourth street,
Forty-fifth street, Forty-eighth street,
Forty-ninth street, Fiftieth street, Fifty-first street, Avon street, Cavour street, Clifton street, Hudson street, Forest street and College avenue to where said center line, if projected easterly, would be a distance of 140 feet.

Shafter avenue; thence from the southern line of said Shafter avenue, on a curve to the right, to the center line of said Shafter avenue; thence easterly along the said center line of Shafter avenue where said center line would be intersected by the center line of said Shafter avenue.

And public notice is hereby given that the owners of two-thirds (2-3) of the front feet of lands upon these portions of said Shafter avenue to be used such right, privilege and franchise as said Oakland and Bay Shore Railroad Company, a railroad corporation, for the term of fifty (50) years for the purpose aforesaid.

And public notice is hereby further given that the aforesaid petitions and applications of said Oakland and Bay Shore Railroad Company, a railroad corporation, and of said property owners for said right, privilege and franchise, by Resolution No. 37952, duly passed by the Council of the City of Oakland on the 7th day of April, 1911, are now down for hearing, and will be heard in at a regular meeting thereof, at the Council Chamber in the City Hall of said City of Oakland, in the City of Oakland, County of Alameda, State of California, on Monday, the 24th day of April, A. D. 1911, at the hour of 8 o'clock P. M.

By order of the Council of the City of Oakland.
Dated, Oakland, California, April 1, A. D. 1911
FRANK R. THOMPSON
City Clerk and Clerk of the Council of the City of Oakland.

RAILWAY TO GRADE ASHLAND AVENUE

Boulevard to Join East and West Sections of Richmond.

RICHMOND, April 22.—The promise of Engineer Bradley of the Santa Fe Company that the work of building up and grading Ashland avenue will commence within ten days is a harbinger of civic unity in Richmond that will be of great benefit to the city. There has been a friendly rivalry as to the development of different sections, which at times has developed into acrimony, but this latter feeling has almost entirely disappeared under the tremendous advance of the manufacturing city, which has been so great as to please every interest.

The creating of the fine new thoroughfare, Ashland avenue, will be the final act in the eradication of any jealousy. It means a wide highway connecting the two important sections of the city. It also means a thoroughfare for the proposed municipal wharf, to connect with which a tunnel is to be constructed by a bond issue. Ashland avenue will connect with this tunnel, giving the east side with car connections, full benefit of this wharf, which will be constructed at the western waterfront, if the bonds carry, and will serve temporarily until the inner harbor is built inside Richmond point. Engineer Bradley was here during the week and received the belated bids of two more contractors who are after the big job. The avenue will connect Richmond and Macdonald avenues and will cost, it is estimated, $3,000,000. Bakersfield parties have been looking for a site for a sixty-room fireproof hotel they will probably erect on Macdonald avenue, near the Santa Fe station.

Work on the $25,000 ice plant the San Pablo Ice Company of Vallejo is to build on Eighth street, south of Macdonald avenue, will commence this week. The company expects large ice contracts from the railroads.

Since the first of the year there has been appropriation in New York for improvements at the Standard Oil plant here $25,000. The second line of pipe will be completed to Richmond by June. It will cost $3,000,000.

OREGON CITY DEMANDS LOWER FREIGHT RATES

ROSEBURG, Ore., April 22.—That freight rates on the Southern Pacific Company between San Francisco and Roseburg are unjustly high and that the trade relations between the two cities are thereby retarded was declared by the number of speakers at a mass meeting held here. A committee was appointed to lay out a plan of action looking to a reduction of rates.

TO "TAG" FOR MAGAZINES. STOCKTON, April 22.—The Stockton women interested in the American Woman's League have planned a unique method of securing funds for a chapter house in this city. Their plan is to hold something like "tag" on which they will make a united effort to secure subscriptions for magazines. About one-half of the subscription is retained by the club, and this is made available as a building fund.

OAKLAND SINGER COMING TO BELL

Miss Elinor Hatch, Well Known in Musical Circles Here, Begins Local Engagement.

The many friends of Miss Elinor Hatch are waiting eagerly for the opportunity to greet her upon the occasion of her return to Oakland tomorrow when she will be heard at the Bell Theater as an added attraction to the splendid vaudeville bill which has its inception at Sunday's matinee.

Miss Hatch is one of the most gifted sopranos that the coast has produced. She has had the advantage of high class musical training from some of the best masters both in America and abroad and her vaudeville appearances have been much more than ordinarily successful.

She is a graduate of the University of California, where she was one of the most popular and most brilliant students and afterward became identified with the faculty at Mills college.

Her many friends and admirers no doubt will be on hand to welcome her in her Oakland engagement.

NOTED RIFLE SHOT DIES SUDDENLY

D. B. Faktor Passes Away of Heart Failure at 53 Years of Age.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 22.—D. B. Faktor, who won national fame as a rifle shot, died suddenly yesterday in his home on Bush street. Faktor had been slightly indisposed, but was about the city as usual until Thursday night. Death was caused by heart failure.

Faktor originated and successfully managed the shooting contests during the midwinter fair, which attracted world-wide attention. He was born in Austria fifty-three years ago. He made San Francisco his home for the last thirty years. He was a member of the San Francisco Schuetzen Verein, the California Schuetzen Club, Germania Schuetzen Club, San Francisco Lodge No. 2, Royal Arch, Sueddeutscher Verein, Odd Fellows, and of Germania Lodge and Wahlhalla Encampment No. 7, Independent Order of Odd Fellows.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock on Monday afternoon from the parlors at Golden Gate avenue and Richmond street under the auspices of Germania Lodge of Odd Fellows. The Schuetzen Verein, in uniform, will act as military escort. Cremation will be held in the Odd Fellows' hall.

Surviving him are a widow, Mrs. Amelia Faktor, and the following children: Mrs. H. W. Noethig, Mrs. G. Rischmuller, Ferdinand Hildebrand and Rudolph Faktor.

CAN'T COME TOO QUICK

Oakland Merchants Prefer Scenes at Home to Those of Canadian Rockies.

Mr. A. Jonas, the pioneer merchant of Broadway, received the following telegram this morning from Messrs. Milton and Irving Jonas from Chicago:

"We secured the agency for the Kuppenheimer Clothing Company, leave tonight Overland Limited, arrive Sunday 10 a. m. Can't come home too quick."

There is a nice story behind this of mercantile conquest, and abandonment of pleasure plans, for the pleasure of being at home again. Messrs. Irving and Milton Jonas have been in New York and Rochester, Buffalo, Philadelphia and Chicago many weeks on an extensive buying and contracting expedition for the Hudson's Bay company.

It was their intention on leaving Chicago for home to go by Canadian Rockies and enjoy scenery, but they have deferred it, preferring to be back again in Oakland in the harness promoting business.

The receiving of the agency for Oakland of the account above mentioned is alone a reward of merit and worth the entire trip expenses.

MIDNIGHT IN THE OZARKS and yet sleepless Elram Scranton, of Clay City, Ill., coughed and coughed. He was in the mountains on the advice of five doctors, who said he had consumption, and but found no help in the climate. He started home. Hearing of Dr. King's New Discovery, he began to use it. "I believe it saved my life," he writes, "I can now do good work again." For all lung disease, coughs, colds, influenza, hay fever, hemorrhages, hoarseness or quinsy it's the best known remedy. Price 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free. Guaranteed by Osgood Bros.

Fourth Avenue Heights

Read what Elbert Hubbard Says

Here I am writing this on a pad, on my knee, seated on the grass on a gentle slope of Fourth Avenue Heights. Over the roofs and tree-tops, across the stretch of salt and smiling waters, I see San Francisco—near enough, but not too near. I own the landscape. I see the ships starting for the Orient, others swing listless on the gently tossing tide.

Great green hills lift themselves to the North and East, and a million monuments to the Prophet and Planter of Trees sway in the breeze and lose themselves in a mass of green. I murmur a prayer of praise to Heaven, and think of the saying of Stephen Girard: "If I knew I was to die tomorrow, I would plant a tree today."

Golden popples flock the carpet at my feet; meadow larks sing and soar; a flock of quails scurry across the road, making unkind remarks about me as they run and only fifteen minutes to Broadway—think of that! not knowing that I love them and would not harm a feather of their proud little bunch of millinery.

Glorious sunshine, music of birds, perfume of flowers, moving pictures of clouds, ships, water, ships, trees—and a voice is heard at my elbow.

A fine young fellow I was playing ball with yesterday stands there grinning. He is a reporter on a big and prosperous daily across the bay.

"Say, Fra, the managing editor told me to ask you what you are going to do with all the money the Orpheum pays you?"

"And I answered, 'Lookie you, son, I am going to buy two lots here in the Piedmont hills—two lots with two weeks' pay. Then with the third week's pay, I am going to build a house on one of the lots and keep the other lot for a little farm, a tabloid ranch, a Garden of Eden, and a game preserve. So when I come here to spend the year 1915, I will come to my own home, and perhaps remain here."

"Buy land and buy it anywhere," says Jim Hill—I buy here!

And this is no pleasant fantasy.

ELBERT HUBBARD.

has been the realty sensation of the year and why one day's delay in seeing this property may cause you years of regret.

—Note the car line now running directly through the tract on a broad paved boulevard; 15 minutes to Broadway; 10 minute service.

—Note the Key Route right of way cutting through the center of the property.

—Note the completed boulevard extending to the center of the city.

—These are features that cannot be overlooked by you in your selection of a lot. Features that will make value and will cause values to double and treble in the rapid development of these properties.

—Sewers—Water—Gas—Electricity—Telephone—Paved Streets—Sidewalks

—all are here (not to be built), but actually completed.

—Fourth Avenue Heights is the highest and most beautifully located residence subdivision of easy access in the Piedmont hills.

—At a single glance the eye takes in the complete panorama from Point Richmond and Mt. Tamalpais to Redwood City and Hayward, embracing the Golden Gate with all its splendor, the flashing bay with its many interesting scenes and islands.

—Fourth Avenue Heights not only has a view that is imperishable—that can never be obscured by building development, but also has a superb climate, healthful and invigorating atmosphere, high above the fog belt and free from winds.

It Is Imperative That You Act Now

barrier to the growth and development of residence properties with a view of the harbor.

—Fortunes are now being spent developing low lands and valleys on the fringe of Piedmont.

—Fourth Avenue Heights is absolutely the last restricted hill-slope property. The man who fails to seize the opportunity now must later buy in some low and undesirable subdivision. Even now, one month after the opening of this tract, there are less than One Hundred of these beautiful marine view lots remaining unsold. In less than one year, large, level lots such as we are now selling for $1000 $100 down and $10 a month with no interest or taxes till 1912 will be beyond the reach of the moderate sized purse.

Go out and see the beautiful homes now being erected—note the intense activity on all sides—the tremendous increase in values bound to take place before 1915.
